WE NOMINATE

John Peter Moran, newly elected member of the Board of Directors of the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce and Civic Council and "pilot" of a study-committee concerned with exploring the prospects for regional planning in an area often handicapped by rigid adherence to municipal and county boundaries. For the past six months this 37-year old engineer-architect, working closely with representatives of neighboring municipalities, has been hammering out for the approval of an informal 25-member advisory council a program which might well enable the interlocked segments of Mercer, Middlesex and Somerset Counties to cooperate effectively in coping with some of the problems of pell-mell growth and development.

It was in 1959 that the Pennsylvania-born Moran, a resident of New Jersey since he was 7, returned to Princeton to probe the possibilities of qualifying for an assignment of designing one of the components, major or minor, in the University's building program. As chief of design for the well-known architectural firm headed by his father, he "didn't expect a million-dollar program, but maybe $20,000." Instead, he became so deeply engrossed with the plans outlined by a former adviser, Joseph C. Elgin, and the late Robert L. Johnstone that "by day's end," on the threshold of his 30th birthday, he was working for the University.

Four years later, after serving an exacting apprenticeship as Assistant Superintendent of Grounds and Buildings, Moran was appointed to the newly created position of Director of the University's Division of Physical Planning. In this capacity, shouldered with long-range campus planning, the development of plans for proposed buildings with appointed architects, liaison with governmental agencies in planning and zoning matters, and even space assignments within the University, Moran assumed responsibility for briefing the Town and Gown's needs and aspirations. His energetic pursuit of his duties prompted one observer to note that "he has now probably attended more Township and Borough meetings than any conceivable number of citizens combined."

A member of the Class of 1951 at Princeton, where he "majored" in Civil Engineering and "minored" in Architecture, and was as active in extra-curricular activities as he is today in civic affairs, Moran spent four years with the Navy's Civil Engineering Corps ("The Seabees"), sharpening his interest in the entwined professions of engineering and architecture. He joined the North Jersey firm of Robert P. Moran Associates and entered upon architectural studies at both Columbia and Newark College of Engineering.

Secretary Designate of the Capital Chapter of the New Jersey Society of Architects, and currently helping plan a major December conference on the general theme of "The Impact of Ugliness on New Jersey," Moran is a trustee of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association. A resident of the Borough of Hopewell, he is a member of the Hopewell Planning Board and as the representative of that agency sits with the Recreational and Cultural Committee for the Hopewell Valley. The incredible pace at which he lives, with an unending round of evening and weekend meetings and with four young children at home, means that his lone avocation has become "reading for pleasure and professional reasons" — supplanting his interests in years gone by in sculpture, skiing and trout fishing, areas in which he is markedly proficient.

For ever seeking to improve the channels of communication between the University and the local governments and their citizens; for stressing that the cooperation and coordination of everyone involved are essential if the Princeton Area is to weather the waves of the future; for his dedication to the organizations which he serves so well; he is our nominee as

TEENS ON THE LOOSE

What Are The Answers?

On Monday morning after another weekend of lension and incidents generated by teenagers up and down Nassau Street, police, parents, Mayor Patterson, youth workers, University preceptors and perhaps a lot of teenagers themselves were asking: What's going on with Princeton's teens? When is somebody going to clamp the lid on the very small minority of this age group that is generating an increasing amount of trouble?

Princeton Borough has a mounting teenage problem on its hands. There is no denying it. Asked if it were worse now than ever, The Chief Peter J. McCrohan replied, "Definitely."

That Princeton has entered a period of teenage gang unrest and violence in the streets as suggested by an article in The Daily Princetonian is perhaps too strong, but it is clear that friction between teens and undergraduates is increasing. And so is the battle of teen against teen.

What has brought the problem to a point where something must be done are such items as the report of the mugging of five university students in the past four weeks by teen gangs, unrest and fights at teenage weekend parties in churches on Nassau Street, where 300 and 400 youths try to squeeze into an area that will hold half that number; reports of gang wars and "rumblings" between Princeton teens and gangs from outlying areas; groups of teens up to 50 or more loitering on Nassau Street harassing and shouting obscenities at passersby.

On Friday night, an over-the-top crowd of teenagers unable to get into a dance at St. Andrews Church, Nassau and Chambers Streets, broke three church windows. Police said that William Sayen, 16, of The Great Road was assaulted and punched in the nose by another teenager.

READY FOR 'Y' FESTIVAL: Color and costume attend add to the festivities at the YWCA International Festival. Opening night is this Friday at 8, and the Festival runs on all day Saturday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., at the "Y" Building on Avalon Place. (Left to right): Mrs. Peter Woodrow, Mrs. Arthur Riccio Jr., and Mrs. Rudolf Ruedemann. (Photo by H. Avery Chiraweth)

Later a group of 15-20 boys and girls, police said, entered the 13th entry of Holder Hall and attacked a University sophomore, Harry S. Robinson of 132 Holder. He was punched in the back, hit with a plastic laundry box and generally roughed up. After being treated for abrasions at the University infirmary, he was released.

The same night, Stephen C. Tracy, 21 Holder Hall, reported that he was attacked around midnight while he and his date were walking up Chambers Street. Neither he nor Robinson were able to identify their attackers for the police after looking at pictures from last night's photographs.

On Monday, Andrew Clauson, 29, of Variety Avenue, Penns Neck, told P.M. Douglas Watson that he had been attacked by a university student at 1 a.m. in front of the Daily Princetonian. This incident allegedly took place shortly after some 200-300 students carrying torches had marched on Elm Drive on campus. They were warned by Dean William Lippincott not to cross Nassau Street.

Like the Boardwalk, the focal point for teenager unrest is Nassau Street. Why? "It's the place where the action is," says Chief McCrohan. "It's the place to be seen. It's like the boardwalk at Atlantic City. It has bright lights, soda fountains, cars. I've talked to chiefs in every municipality in Mercer County and every one says where you find this, you'll find teenagers hanging out."

Then, he added, there were the Presbyterian churches on Nassau where teen dances are held on weekends. "Where you have a dance that can accommodate 100 to 200, and 400 come, what happens to the other 200? They start milling around, clowning, showing off, making smart remarks, and the area is ripe for trouble."

"Somebody," he continued, "never go inside. They prefer to remain outside and cause trouble."

Hard To Control. Why can't police just move in, make arrests and end this congregating? Chief McCrohan flicked off the factors that militate against effective police control.

First, the Borough until this week has had a five-man patrol on duty on weekends, including the desk officer. It just isn't enough manpower.

Second, unless an officer actually sees someone committing a disturbance, he cannot issue a disorderly person summons: hand in glove with this is the refusal of private citizens who do witness such acts to sign complaints. To these, Chief McCrohan added the leniency of the courts, the understandable hesitancy of judges to brand a boy a criminal, the lack of an enforceable loitering ordinance, and the added burden of recent Supreme Court rulings in obtaining convictions.

What are the solutions? Chief McCrohan said he has increased his weekend duty roster to seven, with the added personnel being confined to patrolling the central business district. "If possible, I'd like to add even more," he said, but he feels that this isn't the whole answer.

Will leave Subpoenas. An other course he plans to pursue is to subpoena more witnesses — those who don't want to come to court, who don't want to be involved. "We don't like to do this," he said. "Such people usually don't make good witnesses, but something has to be done." He added that he also plans to make more test cases of the Borough's loitering ordinance, which in the past has not been upheld by the courts. Loitering is more flagrant than ever, he reports.

An example, Chief McGrohan reported the police received a call Friday from Skinner's Smoke Shop, saying there was a crowd of about 100 teenagers in front of Benwick's Restaurant and there might be trouble. Police cars were dispatched.
This time, there was no trouble.

Says the Chief, "We get calls everyday from the cake house and places like that asking us to come down and tell the kids to move off.
We do. Ten minutes later, they're back again."

"People keep saying, 'Something has to be done.' But we have to work within the limits of the law."

A Stronger Law? A new loitering law with stronger teeth in it is that the answer? Chief McGrohan said he wasn't sure.

instead, he pointed his finger at the parents, saying from the schools, churches and the parents. Particularly the parents.

"Parents must see their kids going out every night and yet how many bother to find out where they are going? How many say 'no' to them? If parents don't care, the teenager won't care either."

Other Viewpoints. At his news conference on Tuesday, Mayor Henry Patterson said,
"I am disturbed at what happened." He pointed out that in his opinion more police on Nassau Street would only push teen crowds somewhere else.
Any kind of police "barrier" between campus and Nassau Street, he continued, would be a bad idea.

As for the opinion of Chief McGrohan that the church dances cause more harm than good, Mayor Patterson disagrees. "I'm very reluctant to suggest doing away with the church dances just because of these unfortunate happenings.
The fact that so many people hang around outside is an implication that dances are popular and are needed. I'd rather work out some way to reorganize the dances, maybe we should take a second look at the way they are operated."

The teens themselves ask Why arrest the police where they are needed? In an editorial in "The Changing Times," a newspaper written by this age group, they say:
"There are usually enough police men at the dances, but where are they when the groups of teenagers congregate after dances?"

The writer concludes, "As usual it is only a small percent who throw a shadow on the rest of us. Don't the majority of teens raise the same protection against our minority groups that the adults buy for themselves against their own minority?"

Rogers Carrington, director of Youth Associates which sponsors the church dances and the teenage newspaper, believes the chief problem now is lack of space — finding the room for all. His long-range solution is the construction of a teenage student lounge, located near the high school, which would contain game rooms, snacks area and a place to dance and which would appropriately meet the needs of the teenagers.

However, there is a gnawing feeling among many that it won't work because "it won't be on Nassau Street." "You could have a teen lounge that would work fine for a while, but then it would become passive and none of the kids would go there," commented Mayor Patterson.

While the appointment of

TOPICS Of The Town

HOSPITAL WINS PARKING
Residents Lose, Princeton Hospital has been given its special permit to lay out parking spaces on the residential properties it owns along Henry Avenue.

After hearing much heated debate and charge and counter-charge over the past weeks, the Township Zoning Board voted Thursday night to give the hospital its permit. Residents of Henry, Harris, Carman and Moore had petitioned against the hospital's request and appeared before the board in opposition.

Russell Van Cleave, chairman, William Geddes and Frederick Schuler voted in favor of the permit. Felix Pirone abstained and so did Ivan Bash. Mr. Bash said he was abstaining because he is a newly appointed member of the Board and had not been present during all the testimony. Mr. Pirone did not give a reason.

The Zoning Board announced it was granting the permit because it regarded the parking lots as an accessory use to the hospital. Hospitals are a permitted use in a residential zone. Members also said there was a "clearly demonstrated need" for the parking that would not be met by existing facilities.

However, the Board attached several conditions to its approval. The hospital must shield the Henry Avenue lot from the protesting neighbors by a six-foot high basketweave fence on the hospital's property line and an evergreen screen.

Also, the present Henry Avenue exit must be changed to an entrance and no exit into Henry will be allowed. Cars will exit only via the present Witherspoon driveway.

WHAT OF MONTGOMERY?
Decision Due. The fate of future Montgomery Township high school children will be decided shortly.

Dr. Harvey Rothberg, president of the Princeton Regional School, said Tuesday night that state officials expect to announce within the next two weeks whether Montgomery II will continue as a sending district to Princeton High School.

Members of the Plainsboro board of Education attended Tuesday's meeting and met afterwards in executive session with the Regional Board. Plainsboro and West Windsor announced last week that they are considering a joint high school. Both are PHS sending districts.

"TRICK OR TREAT — FOR UNICEF"
Princeton children will ring doorbells on Monday evening in full Halloween regalia and with UNICEF collection boxes in their hands. In the preview above are (from left) Christopher Price 9; Michael Silix 10; Turner Price 12; Patrick Goldsmith 12, under the watchful eyes of Peter Heinemann 15, UNICEF treasurer and Dee Dee Price 14, black captain.

A meeting with Rocky Hill should be held as soon as possible after the state's decision on Montgomery is announced. Dr. Rothberg said.

Too Many Pupils. Overcrowding at Johnson Park School drew a letter to the Regional Board from Karl M. Light, president of the school's P.T.O.

The letter asked the Board to send new students to other schools, construct new classrooms at Johnson Park and enclose the gym area.

The Regional School system picked up the equivalent of one whole classroom last month: Dr. John J. McKenna, acting superintendent, said that 24 new pupils had been enrolled in the elementary schools. There are now 3,263 elementary and 1,834 high school students for a total of 5,112.

"Furniture," brooded Dr. McKenna. Cafeteria furniture for the new John Witherspoon School is still undelivered, he said.

He also told the Board that the electrical system in the shop is the only problem area in the new school and that the architect is now correcting the trouble.

Too Much Noise. Reducing the sound level in the John Witherspoon gym is also now under study by the architect, he said. In response to parent concern about lack of shelter at the school for children waiting on rainy days for a ride, Dr. McKenna and the Board said the matter would which the Township has just done and the Borough will shortly — may help the problem is complicated by the changing number of teenagers. Anyone walking down Nassau Street Friday after school cannot help but notice the burgeoning clusters of youths doing the street.

At his press conference Tuesday, Chief McCrohan recalled that when he went to school here, there were a total of 100 in high school. "If Nassau Street is as he says, a boardwalk which not only Princeton teens but those from outlying areas — Rocky Hill, Kingston, Hopewell, Princeton Junction — funnel into, then it is not surprising that weekend crowds soon swell over two and three hundred or more.

Stratification. In fact, so large is the lemming-like influx that the teens have stratified themselves into groups, according to observation by Chief McCrohan. Starting with the area near the Panekase House, he reports, this is the hangout for a group who are mostly Negroes.

The bowling alley up the street is the "domain" of the leather-jacket set, mainly all boys from the outlying areas of Kingston, Rocky Hill and Penns Neck. Outside groups are told to keep moving and they usually do.

The Princeton Coffee Shopper and the bus stop near Palmer Square are frequented by the long-haired set, a mixed group of boys and girls, some of whom come from "the finest families in Princeton," according to Chief McCrohan. At Newkirk's an even greater number of boys and girls loiter. "They never seem to work, they're there day and night. They don't seem to want to go to dances or join in any supervised activity of any type. This must be the group," he said dryly, "that they are building the teenage lounge for."

Many of the teenagers that gravitate to Nassau Street like a magnet to light have cars; virtually all have money to spend. It seems inevitable with the different factions rubbing shoulders with each other that sparks will fly occasionally. It is inevitable that a few will be in a position to resist drawing attention to themselves by fighting, swearing, shouting off and generally raising Cain.

Despite their growing numbers, they remain a small minority, but they are increasingly in the Princeton scene and there is no general agreement as to the solution. It is a problem that will require constant attention — hopefully, among others from the teenagers themselves. As May or Patterson pointed out, "There is no single answer to the teen problem."

The Night We Got Even

Close the door,
Turn out the light:
One more hour
Of sleep tonight.

Midway through the fall semester, a blustery hour we lost last spring comes back. Daylight Savings ends officially Sunday at 2 a.m., so turn these clocks back an hour.

Weatherwise, fall is out to prove that it can be mighty pleasant. A bit cooler than normal, but generally fair right through the weekend.

he considered by the property committing for next year's budget.

"Can't you have a penalty clause for these furniture manufacturers who don't come across?" asked Saul Fox, 35, Hamilton Avenue. "If we did," Mr. McKenna replied, "no company would do."

Board member David Brodsky reported that the Board's salary sub-committee had met with a teachers group and that their aims are "quite reasonable, no different." A teachers' proposal will be submitted to the November 2 and discussed the following week, Mr. Brodsky said.

Mrs. Raymond F. Male, president of the high school board, advised the Board to audit $9,500 for an inter-com system at the high school. "It's the only school in the system without one," she said, and we need it badly to communicate with the students in case of emergency."

The second half of the Board meeting was devoted to the airing in a series of reports by member of the professional staff.

Kenneth Bowers, science coordinator for the elementary schools and a science teacher at Valley Road, and Frank M. Strohaber of the high school science department, described the science program in the system for grades seven through 12.

TOWN TOPICS will report on Mr. Bowers and Mr. Strohaber's work in a forthcoming issue.

FUND HALFWAY TO GOAL
Corporation Giving Rise. The United Community Fund, Red Cross Campaign has raised half of the funds needed for its $442,333 goal. Campaign chairman Arthur Curtis expressed optimism for complete success, noting that corporation giving has increased this year.

The Princeton Special Gifts Division, headed by Mrs. John McLaughlin, Mrs. Samuel Lake, Dr. Irving Wolff and Peter Holmbeck, has received $102,300 toward its mark of $125,000. Returns from schools, the building trust and the University have been limited, but campaign workers are struggling to meet the goal.

Corporation which showed an increase in employee giving this year include Shell Chemical, where the employees gifts were double last year's; Western Electric, where gifts were 30 percent higher than previously; and Educational Testing Service, where giving rose 10 percent.

FAIR OPHELIA: Hamlet and Ophelia watch the play within a play that will catch the conscience of the king. Ophelia is Elain O'Malley and Hamlet is George Hearn. McCarte's third offering of the Fall season is reviewed below.

News Of The THEATRES

"HAMLET" OPENS
Third, for McCarte, Arthur Lithgow would not know how to direct a sloppy production of Shakespeare and the "Hamlet" he has introduced to the fall repertory season at McCarte is creditable and sound.
Young audiences who descend on McCarte from high schools all over the state and undergraduates from the University will discover through this production, probably for the first time, that "Hamlet" is actually a play, of all things.

A ghost in silver armor and pale light is ghostly beyond the printed word. That pompous old bore, Polonius, is much more vivid on stage than on page. The silky hypocrisy of Rosencrantz and Guildenstern is there before your eyes in trim moustache and top-kick doublet.
In the final duel, when Hamlet deftly seizes Laertes' sword and turns it against him, the moment has the timeless excitement of all good sword-play.

Question Posed. The question is, how much does all this mean to an experienced, adult theatre-goer?
The "Hamlet" now at McCarte is straightforward, traditional, classic, somewhat uneven in execution. There is no modern-dress gimmick, no unique interpretation of the play, no electric young actor in the title role, nothing, in short to draw you to University Place out of curiosity or a desire for intellectual excitement.

Hamlet is played by a young, red-headed actor named George Hearn. At the start, he seems to be a Hamlet from the quiet, reflective, introspective school and indeed his "To be or not to be" on opening night was delivered quietly to a hushed house.

But he does not sustain this conception and when we least expect it, we find him kicking his heels with adrenaalin and temper. Mr. Hearn's best moment was that "To be" soliloquy we mentioned above; on other occasions, he either shurs his lines or throws them away altogether.

A Memorable Ophelia. The finest performance in the production comes from Elain O'Malley. Frail, fey and lost, her Ophelia is touchingly memorable. Miss O'Malley is one of those rare young actresses who can make us sense, from the first moments we see her, the unstable fragility that will eventually drive Ophelia into madness.

Every Battin' best moment as King Claudius comes during the tortured scene in which he attempts to pray. Mr. Battin is happy and at home in Shakespeare and this time, we can understand his lines.

As Queen Gertrude, Angela Wood is lovely but too much a lady. She and the King exchange arch glances and a domestic kiss or two, but the worldly sensuality needed for this role is absent.

Robert L. Goldman emerges from the Rider College faculty to play Polonius successfully in the Hume Cronyn manner.
Unfortunately, both Marc Alaimo as Laertes and Anthony Simas as Horatio are no good. Mr. Alaimo embarrassing so, Mr. Simas recites those penultimate as though he were a metronome and indeed many members of the cast, Hamlet included, have a tendency to slip into sing-song when the going gets fast and rough.

Charles D. Tomlinson has designed Elizabethan costumes which are dazzling in opulence, color, lavishness of fabric and detail.

— Katharine H. Bretnall

THREE, IN CYCLE
Repertory Castings. "Agamemnon," "A View from the Bridge" and "Hamlet" will continue in repertory for a while at McCarte Theatre until "Ours in a Lifetime" bows on Friday, November 11. "Agamemnon" will be given this Friday at 8:30. "Hamlet" this Saturday and next Saturday at 8:30; next Thursday, November 3 at 7:30 and Friday, November 18 at 8:30. "A View from the Bridge" will be played for the last time Friday, November 4, at 8:30.

"TOUCH OF EVIL"

From Welles. Next in the retrospective of Orson Welles films now being run through at Carter, will be "A Touch of Evil" from 1958. It will be shown Tuesday night at 8.

In this film, Orson Welles stars with Mercedes McCam-

IT'S NEW To Us

FIRST, THANKSGIVING

That's Christmas Now, don't clutch in despair. The thoughtful owners of Ambleside, the plant plant at Belle Mead on Route 206, have provided flowers, fruit, candles and ideas so that you can build floral arrangements for your Thanksgiving Feast clear away the turkey and begin to work ahead on arrangements for Christmas.

Dried grasses, bearded wheat, the seed-heads of millet, furry little cat paws, cattails (not so furry), the open warmth of wood-roses, rice grass and tassel-aren't you ready right now to see what imaginative autumn bouquets you can assemble?

(Incidentally, everything serene, poddy and woody is New Jersey and local—right out of sandy pine barrens, swamp or wooded hillside. Only the wood roses are from outside the state.)

If your hand is hesitant or inexperienced, you may want to buy a ready-made Ambleside arrangement. For $9.95, you may have a lovely assemblage of cherry bells, cattails, red plumes and wood roses, and for $3.75, a sturdy little composition using pine-needles, acorns, strawflowers and a chipper autumn bird, all perched on a garlanded leaf root.

We like the $1.75 spray of love-apples, brilliant orange and about the size of a shrunken golf-ball. They are bright against all the brown. If fruit is your dish, Ambleside has seckel pears, crab apples, grapes and even some ripening blueberries. You'll be charmed at the way Ambleside has arranged a garland of Della Robbia fruit in a spiral around an autumn candle.

Why not make a small arrangement in a bird's nest? We saw one with a cluster of grape leaves topped by a bunch of red-hot peppers. A delightful touch of color for a small corner table.

There are other containers, too: a small classic composite in olive or earthy gold and laurel roots, nicely garlanded.

From Italy, Ambleside has imported a spray of miniature

Use Shop for You

Horrased executives with no time to spare for Christmas and housewives who are housebound—or, say, too busy else, for that matter—may turn in relief to Finders for some Christmas shopping.

Finders has a Christmas shopping service, in addition to its year-round service of finding that old man, old woman, old child or the coffee-grinder you'd like for the coffee.

Call any of the three telephone numbers listed in "It's New To Us" and bare your soul and your shopping list.

vegetables—tiny onions, minute carrots, marble-sized potatoes too, we didn't notice any paricle.

For Christmas shopping, you'll want more of the Della Robbia fruit, and some translucent berries to hang against a lighted window or the lights of a Christmas tree. Metallic fruits from Italy in gleaming red, lime green, terra gold would be spectacular or just "right tree."

Another kind of house will buy up those pine cones. Ambleside has cones from about a dozen different trees: sugar pine cones about a foot long, loblolly, ponderosa, hon-leaf.

They start at $50 a dozen and go on to $1 for that single big one.

And lest you forget that Ambleside is a plant market—here are bulbs to plant right now for your rock-garden: idem tulips, spring beauty, miniature jonquills and bird seed and suet.

WE FIND FOR YOU
Art Novagat? Or . . . The "or" in this case means "If you want something, we'll find it for you."

"We" means the Finders, a trio of women who will shop to find what you want. They are particularly delighted if your desire is an antique, either Victorian or Chinese, but they will gamely go out on a search for a piano (just the right price) or a couch (just the right size).

One customer, for example, has asked for a special kind of Victorian fender for the hearth. Another wants a wing chair. A third has asked whether Finders can turn up a painting from a particular school of American primitive painters.

One of the most exciting

Finders was a signed piece by Galle, the famous Art Nouveau glassmaker. Finders uncovered an exquisite collection of this unusual one-on-one opaque glass, fashioned in the characteristic Art Nouveau manner with Galle's own distinctive artistry.

One of the Finders is something of an expert in Chinese objects d'art, and she has three lovely covered hawthorne (ginger) jars and a lovely little vase about a century old.

A very old jar with the classic blue-white prun blossom pattern was made in the last century when craftsmen still took pains to make the white stark and clear against a splendid cobalt blue. A real treasure, this one.

Finders also has old desk stands for these precious jars and vases, and these carved desk pieces are harder and harder to find.

One "Finder" is an expert in Victorian furniture, another in Victorian glassware and china. How about you?

The three wise Finders are

MUSIC In Princeton

BALLET PLEASES

Sunday at McCarthy. The second event of McCarthey Theatre's 1966-67 dance series occurred Sunday afternoon and featured the National Ballet under the artistic direction of Frederic Franklin. The troupe is presently the resident ballet company of our nation's capital and enjoys the support of the first lady as well as many of our distinguished national personalities who reside in the Washington area.

The program included four non-descriptive sets of dance compositions. No scenery was required. Included were George Balanchine's "Serenade" composed to Tchaikovsky's "Serenade For Strings" and Michael Lopuszanski's choreographic study, "Through the Edge," set to the beautiful "Adagio for Strings" by Samuel Barber. Next came Frederic Franklin's "Dance Brilliant" to an insignificant collection of trivials by Michael Glicko, and finally, Balanchine's choreography to Hindemith's "The Four Temperaments."

"Serenade" was Balanchine's first choreographical essay created in America, resulting from special instructional sessions he was offering his students in preparation for dancing on a stage as well as in the studio. He chose the music from Tchaikovsky's lovely "Serenade for Strings" because the music, though unmistakably Tchaikowskian, was unfamiliar to most young dancers at that time. During the course of the term, Balanchine incorporated certain accidental incidents that had occurred, which he felt would enhance his creation.

Of the four principal performers in "Serenade," Michele Lynn seemed the most impressive. In fact, many of the works where she had only a supporting or secondary role, her superb coordination beginning with the projection of the face and eyes, passing through the supple body and relaxed features of her arms, down to the delicate celerity in her toe movements, displayed to her audience a lovely creature indeed, an artist to watch for in the not too distant future.

Inhibited Loves Portrayed. The most powerful work of the afternoon was Michael Lopuszanski's "Through the Edge." This is a study of two inhibited lovers whose unconscious selves communicate the heavy, emotion and tenderness of love through an exquisite series of dance episodes. Judith Helman as the girl and Roger Higelow as the boy possessed just the right amount of innocence and shyness in their halting yet coy movements, while their subconscious selves, portrayed by Jane Miller and Hilder Hahn, danced those in the theatre by some of the most beautifully provocative dance artists this reviewer has ever seen.

After this, the program did not command nearly as much interest. Anita Dyche and Ivan Nagy were both outstanding in the "Dance Brilliant" and the work itself could only be described as a dancer's delight.

The brilliant performance of Miss Dyche in the final variation, "Chaconne" by Hindemith's "The Four Temperaments" was a real highlight of the work itself could only be described as a dancer's delight.

Gigi (now playing) The colorful musical of some years ago returns for another viewing. Leslie Caron is appealing as Colette's youthful heroine, reared in the demi-monde of turn-of-the-century Paris. Maurice Chevalier and Hermeline Givaudan sing the nostalgic "I Remember It Well." The songs weather the years well, and the cast is excellent.

Decca Records has released its second recording by the Princeton Chamber Orchestra under Nicholas Harsanyi.

Erica Morini appears as violin soloist with the orchestra in the Mozart Violin Concerto No. 4 and Bach's Violin Concerto No. 1. The recording was made last May.

In December, the Princeton Chamber Orchestra will record Benjamin Britten's "The Illuminations" with Janice Harsanyi, soprano, and the Mendelssohn Symphony No. 9. Decca plans a January release date. The orchestra's recording of Norman Delo Jola's Meditations on Ecclesiastes will be released at the same time.

Victor Mozart-Bach record may be ordered at the Princeton University Store or the Princeton Music Center on Palmer Square.

many fine points to Balanchine's choreography, the patterns of movement often appeared as mere contrivances, if not renderings of nameless ideas created to better effect elsewhere, notably with Stravinsky's ballets.

The broad, sweeping music of Balanchine played, incidentally, only last week by the Princeton Chamber Orchestra, with Harsanyi conducting, belies the composer's own habits of "melancholic," "sardonic," "palesthetic," and "Chorelic." The theme itself is thus contrasting elements and each variation retains this structure. In other words, traces of the ballets often appear within the scope of each variation. As a result one fails to see the rationale behind Balanchine's titles or Balanchine's attempts to choreograph in the first place.

The ballet company itself is quite good overall, for there is much fine talent within its ranks. The programming could have been more intelligently planned. Lack of a set meant a colorless backdrop throughout the whole afternoon. And finally, why are ballet touring companies so bad? There is

NOW IS FIX-IT TIME

For Air-Conditioners. When a man has learned about cooling machinery from his father, who was the engineering expert at Baker Rink, you know you can trust him to overhaul your air-conditioner. Clifford Taft is the expert. Bernelliffe at 238 Alexander is a bit of a company. Bernard Dagher is the other half of that "Bernelliffe" name.

Here's what Mr. Taft will do for your air-conditioner: wash it with a special chemical made to his own specifications; recheck the cooling cycle including condenser compressor, examine fan and fan speed and thermostat control; check for leaks and bad switches and apply protective undercoat. Until November 15, you can have all this on special for $24.95.

Mr. Taft uses the chemical for cleaning instead of steam which he has found that high-temperature steam eventually disintegrates the coil. He sprays on his fluid low temperature and pressure.

Dirt is the real problem with air-conditioners, he points out. The back coil is unprotected from dust, bugs, leaves and grass blown across it by the wind. The front coil, inside the room, collects cooking oils and cigarette smoke. The real villain, Mr. Taft says and before long the air just plain smells. Unless Mr. Taft's special cleaner has washed all this gunk out.

Mr. Taft says he can restore air-conditioners as old as 16 years—and that's a real racket in his business.

Call Bernelliffe at 324-2000.

In launching its fund campaign, the Association overlooked its agreement as a member agency of the United Fund not to solicit in the Princeton area.

The Association plans to submit a revised operational budget to the Fund to become eligible for funds set aside for it from the current Fund campaign. Funds which have already been received by Association solicitation will be incorporated with the United Fund allocation.

GOT A MOUSE? Make Him a Movie Star. Think big! If you've never bought of your pet mouse as a movie star, don't delay. Take him (her, them) to the Junior Museum in Borough Hall on Saturday, November 5, and fame will follow.

From 10-12, Ted Brenneman, Andy Baird and Joel Goldberger will take moving pictures of small pets. (All right: it doesn't have to be a mouse. It can be a hamster, rabbit, anything sort of that size.)

"Make Your Mouse a Movie Star" will supplement a series of films on wild and domestic animals now being made by Messrs. Brenneman, Baird and Goldberger.

This Saturday — October 29 — the Junior Museum will hold a get-ready workshop. Between 10 and 4, children and adults will construct dinosaur models and work on a display of animal families under the guidance of Sarah Kuhn.

The Museum's official 1966 opening will be Saturday, November 12, and the opening exhibit will continue the "Stones, Bones and Skins" feature begun last spring.

A new display in "Stones, Bones and Skins" is a black light box for testing fluorescence, and an exhibit of gem minerals prepared by Allan Dimick.

Three electronic question-answer boards prepared by the Valley Road Electronics Club under Kenneth Bowers, will be part of the exhibit.

Director Named. Ernest Butler has been appointed new managing director of the Junior Museum succeeding Mrs. Linda Singer, who has moved to Stony Brook, New York.

David Ludlum, president of the Museum, has announced that the Museum's student awards will be given this year in Mrs. Singer's honor. Winners, cited at school assemblies earlier in the fall, are Mark Lawrence from John Witherspoon School, Mark Bayera from Valley Road and Andy Baird, Princeton High School.

The Princeton Junior Museum is open each Saturday from 9:30 to 4:30, Sundays from 1 to 4 p.m. and Mondays and Wednesdays after school.

Museum headquarters are, at present, on the top floor of Borough Hall. The Museum has asked to be considered as a tenant of the Borough's Engineering Building on Witherspoon Street after the Borough vacates it.

THREE CARS LEAVE ROAD
In Early Morning Mishap
Three cars left the road last week in separate accidents in the Township. All occurred in the early morning hours; none of the drivers was seriously injured.

At 3:09 Friday morning, a 1963 convertible, driven by Francis A. O'Shea Jr., 27, of Drexel Hill, Pa., failed to make a turn on Stockton Street. The front of the car leveled the upper portion of a dry well and damaged 15 feet of hedge on the property of A. N. Spaniel.

Mr. O'Shea told the investigating officer, Ptl. Michael Kopliner, that he had been driving steadily since midnight and must have fallen asleep. He was taken to Princeton Hospital and treated for a bump he received when his head hit the steering wheel. His car had to be towed away.

On Sunday at 4:27 a.m. Joseph Jackson Jr., 33, of North Plainfield, failed to make the sharp curve leading to the Kingston bridge. His car skidded on the wet pavement into the bridge wall.

Mr. Jackson's wife, Evelyn, 33, received a bump on her forehead. He told police he was not aware that the curve was that sharp until it was too late.

Forced Over by Truck
Anthony J. Velvis Jr., 24, of Trenton driving a 1966 Rambler owned by Greger Motors, told Township police that while he was driving on Route 208 at 1:25 Thursday morning, a large tractor trailer, passing a caber and halfway in his lane, forced him to veer to the right.

His car hit a Public Service pole and then continued on, striking a series of large bollards. It was a total loss.

Mr. Velvis added that the left side of his car also might have come in contact with the passing truck. He received scrapes and bruises. The mishap took place 800 feet south of Arreton Road.

In a fourth Township accident, Otto A. Piper, 73, 26 White Pine Lane, crashed into a parked truck Thursday afternoon while driving on Rollingwood, at Princeton Hospital. 23 sutures were used to close lacerations of his face.

Mr. Piper told police he was blinded by the sun and the next thing he knew, he had hit a truck. It was owned by W. K. Doerfler of Trenton.

In the Borough, James E. Hardy, 37 Lafayette Road, was charged with drunken driving by Ptl. John Bellow after he hit a parked car on Witherspoon Street near Franklin Avenue. He was x-rayed and treated for a fractured nose at Princeton Hospital.

Ptl. Bellow reported in his investigation that apparently Mr. Hardy misjudged the distance between his car and a parked car owned by Joseph E. Cushing of Somerville. Both cars had to be towed away. The mishap took place Thursday evening at 6:40.

The "Y's" Festival will open formally this Friday at 8 p.m. in the tent on the Y grounds. The Lady Eaton Eskimo Carving Collection will be on display. Jeremy N. Watney, cultural development officer of the Department of northern affairs for Canada, will speak. An exhibit on whaling from the collection of Mrs. Barbara Johnson will be on view and so will film, "The Living Stone". Admission collected at the opening ceremonies — $1.50 per person — will go to the World Fellowship Fund that advances the work of the YWCA in 77 countries.

Lights! Curtains! Saturday, the kazzaz will open at 9 a.m. The boutiques of the world will spread out their wares, and visitors may sample foreign food while shopping.

At 10, 11, 12, 1 and 2, Allen Zing's Magician will entertain. From 9:30 to 5:30, children's games will be open for customers and marionettes and puppets will perform.

The Hallowe'en make-up booth will compete with impromptu drawings by Avery Chenoweth and after 5:30, there will be a Hallowe'en costume party for all children.

He, on TV? Through a Sony Videorecorder, lent by the University Store, everybody who goes to the Festival can see how he looks on TV and whether he might be able to find a woman.

For adults, Edmund Warthall will appear on "Chinese Festival," emphasizing the Ghost Festival, at 11:15 a.m., 1 p.m. and 4 p.m.

Papier mache figurines by Richard Z. Lays and cast aluminum wall hangings by Barney Joller will be exhibited, and offered for sale.

In the booths, visitors may buy antique English silver, Limoges ware from France, cold-thread fabric from Cairo, shawls from Colombia, hand-woven blankets from Scandinavia.

IT'S BACK TO VIETNAM For Princeton Housewife, cake pans, a stapler and her own pair of scissors — these are the weapons Mrs. Charles Caldwell is taking to war this week as she makes her second trip to the battle-scarred country of Viet Nam.

Last March Mrs. Caldwell, widow of Princeton's noted football coach of 1945-57, made her journey to Viet Nam with little idea of what she would be doing when she got there. She arrived on a six-day pass and wound up staying six weeks. On Tuesday she left her home at 20 College Road West again, this time with a definite picture of what she would be doing, and a better idea of why she was going.

Last spring her contribution as a mail-sorter and package-checker for the United Service Organization (USO) in Saigon may have been small, but it was enough to prompt USO officials to ask her to return this fall. After her initial experiences in Viet Nam, Mrs. Caldwell had no trouble deciding to accept the request.

She said that one of the factors that entered into her considerations was the warmth and generosity the soldiers themselves showed towards the Vietnamese people. "The American people are extremely well-informed," she admitted, "but I don't think they realize what a superlative military force we have and the person-to-person relationship that exists between the G.I.'s and the people of Viet Nam."

Orphanage Built. "For example," she added, "one company of men built an orphanof it," she recounted, "one of them said it was their platoon's turn to give baths to the children of one of the villages."

Another consideration affecting her decision to return was the need for USO volunteers. "They're very short-handed," she said, "and it's the sort of situation where I can help and not everybody is fortunate enough to be able to travel over there and work this way."

She also said that knowing Princeton students and alumni was one of the things that prompted her to go, since they were the young men fighting the war. "My house is always open to undergraduates," she pointed out, "and my hospitality has never once been abused."

Two frequent visitors to Mrs. Caldwell's home on College Road West are Bill Berkley and Carl Behnke, both members of Princeton's football team. Mr. Berkley said, "There's no motive to her kindness—she just likes to help others," while Mr. Behnke reasoned that her return trip is being made "because she feels that she owes the world something and has to do more with her life."

Whatever the reason, Princeton will lose one of its most warm-hearted residents for perhaps 120 days, when her visa expires, or for at least "as long as I can last."

Mrs. Caldwell stressed that she will miss her friends, but is confident that she has made the right choice. "I don't think I've ever done anything more satisfying," she said, "and I've never before in my life been happier than I was in Viet Nam."

HALLOWEEN FUN PLANNED FOR AREA YOUNGSTERS

A dance, a parade, a party, and many types of games and contests are among the activities included in the Halloween program which will be sponsored by the Recreation Department and the Chamber of Commerce.

The celebration will begin with a teen-age dance on Friday at 8 at the high school. Music will be provided by "The Hull Set," and cider and doughnuts will be served. All Branch of four age groups. Poster contests and Township teen-agers are invited, but none will be admitted after 8.

Halloween activities on Monday will begin with a parade down Nassau Street of the youngsters from pre-Goblin Box. Shortly after the school through junior high school age. The parade will end at the high school auditorium and where the Halloween party will be held.

Marchers will meet at 6:15 in the municipal parking lot on Witherspoon Street. Led by the Princeton High School Pep Band, the parade will proceed up Witherspoon Street to Nassau Street; then east on Nassau to Moore, and north to the high school.

Prizes will be awarded at the party for the prettiest, funniest, and most original costumes in her audience, "the Negro still faces the unemployment gap, poor housing and inadequate education." Mrs. Edwards, president of the John-Witherspoon Civic Association, presided over the morning session and delivered the keynote address.

Youngsters should remember to bring the form they receive in school to deposit in the pre-Goblin Box. Shortly after the party is over the "Goblin" will make several telephone calls at the high school auditorium and those who are home to receive the calls will be awarded prizes.

JOBS, SCHOOLS, HOMES IN SEMINAR

In Seminar. Springing freely from the theme, "Striving for Excellence from Within," about 75 Negro and white residents of Princeton spent Saturday talking about jobs, education and housing as guests of the John-Witherspoon Civic Association.

"While the nation prospers," Mrs. R. E. Edwards reminded her audience, "the Negro still faces the unemployment gap, poor housing and inadequate education." Mrs. Edwards, president of the John-Witherspoon Civic Association, presided over the morning session and delivered the keynote address.

Although the day-long seminar was geared thus to Negro problems, most of the people who came were white. Negroes were attracted, however, by and large, the lawyers, teachers and community leaders usually present at such gatherings.

Of the 21 participants in the housing workshop, 10 of them were Negro and of the 18 in the job education seminar, eight were Negro. Attendees at one workshop precluded at least 20 to 30 Negroes, plus those on the panels themselves, were present.

It was a communally-wide gathering, a fact emphasized by Borough Mayor Henry S. Patterson in his address of greeting.

"We promise that everything you want, we will consider," the mayor said, "some of it we have a sense of it we have already done."

In the morning's general speeches and the afternoon's specific workshops, the emphasis was frequently on plath, bread-and-butter ideas.

"Set aside reading and study times in your home," urged Howard Waxwood Jr. "Make your child have responsibilities around the house and don't let him stay up for the late-late show."

"The Princeton Study Center wants to work more closely with parents," stated Mrs. Geraldine Boone, Center president. "Maybe there aren't any books in a particular home, but let's let's hear I haven't the resource . . ." as an excuse from a child. The Study Center does have the resources: the books, the crayons and the help he needs."

"We placed 17 Princeton young people in this summer's Youth Opportunity Program," said Miss Mary Moore, Teens-Adults Co-ordinator for the John-Witherspoon group. "In the last four or five years, we've gone through the Yellow Pages, calling merchants and asking what they could do for teens? We placed youngsters in jobs, even when they had no experience, and we had more than 100 names of boys and girls who wanted summertime jobs. We need more beginning no-experience-needed jobs for these beginners."

"I tell everybody to learn to type well enough to pass the U.S.S. proficiency test, and to get and hold a valid driver's license," Miss Moore added.

The liveliest, yestliest discussions came in the two education workshops, with parents urging teachers to display the

Obituaries

Patrick M. Corvino, 57, of 131 Jefferson Road, died on October 21 in Princeton Hospital after a brief illness. He was the owner of the Princeton Barber Shop, 11 Chambers Street.

Mr. Corvino, a native of Orange, N. J., came to Princeton in 1945. He was a member of the American Legion, Princeton Post 75, The Knights of Columbus, Princeton Council 636 and the Italian-American Sportsman's Club.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Margaret Nick Corvino, two sons, Daniel P. Corvino and Patrick A. Corvino, both of Princeton; a daughter, Mrs. Catherine Opydeck of Princeton; a granddaughter, five sisters, the Misses Kay and Jean Corvino and Mrs. Anthony Varullo, all of Orange; Mrs. Elmer Swanson of Florham Park; and Mrs. Robert Peirilli of Union.

Benjamin high mass was celebrated in St. Paul's Church. Interment was in the parish cemetery under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Mrs. Carol B. Piper, 42, of Rusdale Road, died on October 19 in Princeton Hospital. She was the wife of Manfred Piper.

Surviving are three daughters, Sarah, Pamela and Karen; and her mother, Mrs. Hilda W. Brown.

A memorial service was held in First Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Donald M. Meisel officiating. Interment was at the convenience of the family under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Mrs. Elizabeth VanSelsou, 67, of Alert Court Road, Pennington, died on October 20 in a Highstown nursing home.

Surviving are a son, Harry VanSelsou of Pennington; seven grandchildren and two sisters, Mrs. Marvin Jones and Mrs. Lloyd Sly of Gardenville. The service was held in Pennington, the Rev. Robert B. Murphy of the Titusville Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Mrs. Marie G. Faughnan, 28, of 11 Coleridge Avenue, Yardville, died on October 19 in St. Luke's Hospital, New York City, after a lengthy illness. She was the wife of Thomas Faughnan.

Born in Princeton, Mrs. Faughnan had been a Yardville resident for the past three years. She was a member of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. Raphael's Roman Catholic Church, Yardville; the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, a Girl Scout troop leader and a member of the P.T.A.

Also surviving are a daughter, Debra Lee, her mother, Mrs. Alexander Guerrieri and two brothers, Frederick and David Guerrieri, all of Princeton.

Requiem high mass was celebrated in St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church. Interment was in the parish cemetery under direction of the Mather Funeral Home. Memorial gifts may be made to the Mercer County Heart Association.

Edward W. Bechtold, 69, died on October 19 at his home on Route 206, Hightstown. He was the husband of Mrs. Amelia H. Bechtold.

A veteran of World War I and a Hightstown resident for the past 37 years, Mr. Bechtold was formerly a mechanic at the Central Garage in Hightstown and also at Belle Mead Depot. He retired in 1960.

Also surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Kirk of Metuchen and Mrs. Andrew Weaver of St. Louis, Mo.; four grandchildren, three sisters, Mrs. Raymond Young of Skillman, Mrs. J. A. Van Der Mark of Hopewell and Miss Florence Bechtold of Bound Brook and a brother, John Bechtold of Phoenix, Ariz.

The service was held in Hopewell, the Rev. John F. Nordstrom of the Hightstown Reformed Church officiating. Interment was in Belle Mead Cemetery.

Cleas C. VanVoorhis, 80, of 21 Main Street, Kingston, died on October 20 in Princeton Hospital. He was the husband of the late Eula VanVoorhis.

Born in Sandyville, O., Mr. VanVoorhis lived in Kingston for 40 years and was the former owner of a Kingston nursery. He was a member of the New Jersey and Empire State Gladioli Societies and the Wooster Club of Treton. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, he graduated from Wooster College in 1912 and received his degree in Physics from Princeton University in 1927.

Surviving are a daughter, Miss R. Ruth VanVoorhis at home; a brother, John VanVoorhis of Macgregoria, O. The service was held in Wooster, O., with arrangements here under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Christy Toto, 75, of 25 Greenview Avenue died on October 20 in Princeton Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Carmela C. Toto.

work of children who aren't talented as the rest, and everybody agreeing that more and stronger cooperation between home and school is essential, especially as children get into the higher grades.

Henry Dewey, history teacher at the high school, suggested that schools might use adult education to help parents understand their children.

Fred M. Porter, detective sergeant on the Township police force, said gloomily that parents too often say "Be good or I'll tell the police!" And he Negro "just for the sake of" presenting a good public image."

Walker, that parental failure cuts across all lines of income, social status and education.

Ronald Taylor, moderator of the panel, said that many Negro parents tried to turn a child away from a trade — such as cook — and into a profession, seeing success in terms of money and status and he suggested that some Negroes prefer welfare to a job without status.

Mrs. Edwards pointed out that some firms employed a "NO CANDY THANKS" sign for the sake of

She urged participants in the panels and those who attended, to "influence and lead our young people and adults to improve their minds, improve their bodies and our neighborhoods and 'motivate' for the ultimate improvement of the community."

The seminar is the second in a series to be sponsored by the John-Witherspoon Civic Association.

Coins For UNICEF. Bands of pint-sized Halloween jester will go on Monday night to the streets to collect coins for number of pennies, nickels and dimes for the United Nations Children's Emergency Fund.

The youngsters' UNICEF appeal is under the direction of a corps of teen-agers drawn from Princeton High School, Princeton Country Day School and church youth groups. Margaret Lechner of Skillman is chairman. A similar group is organized in Lawrenceville under the leadership of Rick Tyne.

In this area, as elsewhere, Halloween emphasis is under-estimated. The costumes worn on Monday night are as many as ever, but the evening collecting cookies for number of pennies, nickels and dimes for the United Nations Children's Emergency Fund.

Trick-or-Treaters collected $1,748.86 in Princeton last year. "We opened 500 cookie cans, some coffee cans quite full," says Mrs. Ray Male, adult advisor for the past five years.

So we know that at least 500 children, from very young children up through the teens, must have helped."

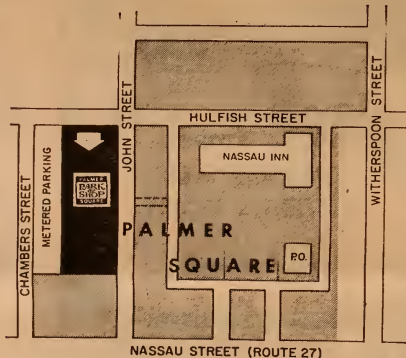

Last year's fund would have been enough, she said, to buy penicillin to make 349,772 children well, or enough BCG vaccine to protect 174,886 youngsters from tuberculosis. A penny buys six glasses of milk. UNICEF funds are also spent on books, medicine, nurse training, improved sanitation and pure water for whole villages. The official UNICEF orange and black collection boxes are being distributed by the teen-agers block captain. They may also be obtained at Male's bookshop, 203 Nassau Street.

dates for public office. It continued this week to announce their positions on some community problems.
Township Democrats: "We see in the Township apartment dwellings erected by the University — a fine example of how part of the housing problem can be solved through bold and innovative action. It is necessary that municipalities take direct action to make property available to non-profit organizations specifically for the purpose of constructing housing for low and middle income residents."
Candidates Geraldine Bono and George Goldsmith made the statement this week in regard to the problem of increasing low-middle income housing in the Township.
The two candidates express their concern that "our town may become just another dreary one-class suburb. We must make Princeton a pleasant and desirable community for all."

Township Republicans. The two candidates, David S. Thompson and John D. Wallace, praise the appointment of a full-time juvenile officer as "a perfect example of how alert our current committee is to the demands of our growing municipality. They urge a stepped-up program of juvenile guidance and counseling."

They also praise the work of the Open Space Commission and cite the acquisition of open space land "at little or no expense to Princeton Township," pressing for a public information program on the location of open spaces, the type of activity provided, and the location of trails. Both pledge further cooperation with the University in developing the recreation possibilities of Lake Carnegie, with due attention to public safety.

Borough Republicans. Two proposals for coping with "creeping obsolescence" in the business area are announced by Charles Cornforth and Fred Blaicher.

They propose (one) that property owners be allowed to redevelop old buildings with buildings of the same square footage and the same usage without providing additional parking to conform to the present zoning requirements and (two) that in return for additional square footage, the owners either provide more parking, or contribute to the Special Borough Parking Lot Fund. In this way, say the candidates, "parking criteria would not be allowed to restrict business growth."

Both candidates stress that they will push for retraction of a By-Bye.

PEACE GROUP FORMED
By Front Supporters. Several Princeton Front-Senior supporters have organized a new peace group. The Mercer County Political Action Committee to End the War in Vietnam has set up headquarters at 173 Nassau Street and has begun its peace program.

The committee stated that it plans to work for peace with politically oriented activities. Members plan to keep the community informed of "the economic and personal effects of the war on the daily lives of the mass of people" and to encourage peace candidates for public office.

The group has sent questionnaires concerning the war to Congressional candidates. It is Frank Thompson Jr. and Ralph Chandler and plans to publicize the responses.

AAUW TO MEET
To hear talk on College. Dr. Richard K. Greenfield, president of the Mercer County Community College, will speak on "The Role of the Community College" at the monthly meeting of the Princeton Branch of the American Association of University Women next Wednesday, October 2, at 8 p.m. at the Riverside School.

Dr. Greenfield will discuss "the citizen's part in community education. Women graduate of four-year colleges and universities who are interested in joining the AAUW are invited to the meeting."

CANDIDATES' NIGHT SET
In Montgomery Township. Candidates will present and discuss their views at the annual Candidates' Night sponsored by the Montgomery Unit of the League of Women Voters this Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Rural Hill Road School.

Francis Nulty and Gerald W. Boynton candidates for the Township Committee, will present their answers to the question, "What do you feel is the most important problem facing Montgomery Township, and what action could you, as a Township Committee member, take within your term of office?"

Candidates for the Board of Chosen Freeholders will answer a similar question about the program. Jules L. Clamen and Charles W. Grayson, candidates for tax assessor, will also speak. Listeners will be invited to ask the candidates questions.

BORED WITH YOUR BEAUTY?
THEN IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE!

I mean a change in your hair, or contour. Talk about taut! A quick change of hair color to a brand new tone does more for a woman and her beauty than any new high-fashion chapeau possibly could!

Luminous, lovely shades - gentle conditioning action, speedy application, routine - these are just some of the features that make today's rinses and semi-permanent colorings so patron perfect. And remember - if your mood changes, so can your hair shade!

Sounds like magic, doesn't it? It is - magic that puts your beauty accent where it belongs . . . on your hair!

Visit TAYVERN WOOD BEAUTY MANOR, 68 Palmer Square West, or call 924-3983. We really care about your hair.

Questions.
Mr. R. D. Hardesty, the Montgomery Unit chairman, will open the meeting, and Mrs. David A. Thomas will moderate. Mrs. Sigmund Block is in charge of arrangements. Resolutions will be served.

SIX MONTHS VS. NEVER: Miss Barbara Fenly (right) and Miss Linda Mina have divergent views on how long a girl should hold out hope of getting an engagement ring. Barbara speaks in terms of never giving up, while Linda is more of a Lovell. After six months, she says the next best thing for a young girl is to get herself a sugar daddy. "He'll give her a ring!" (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: How long do you think a girl should go with someone before she gives up hope of getting an engagement ring?

Where asked: Nassau Street

Mrs. John Sapoch, 174 Moore Street, housewife: I don't think you can tell pretty well after six weeks if you are going to have something going or not. But I think if she has a nice relationship and she's enjoying it, she can go on indefinitely.

Mrs. James Marbas, Kendall Park, housewife: It depends on how old the dating couple is. If it's a college couple, I feel there should be some sort of agreement even before a ring is discussed. I'd say if there hasn't been any discussion of a ring after a year and a half, she should give up.

Miss Pat DiMassa, 44 Wilton Street, employee, Princeton University library: I'd say about a year. If she hasn't heard by then, she might as well start looking somewhere else.

Miss Arlene Panico, 33 Wilton Street, employee, Nassau Savings and Loan: It depends on the age somewhat. If she's older, a year's long enough. If she doesn't know by then she should give up. If she's younger she may be going with someone just for the fun of it and not with the idea of getting married.

Mrs. Judith Cohen, Rocky Hill, teacher: It depends on how much she wants to get married. If she loves him, she could go with him indefinitely. What develops, will develop. If it turns into a relationship just as good as marriage but doesn't have the proper piece of paper sealing it, that's okay. It's just as good as marriage. What counts is the relationship between two people, not a piece of paper saying they are married. I think this whole business of being engaged is rather ridiculous and artificial.

Frank Stecker, 204 Ewing Street, graduate student, historian: About a year. She should be able to find out within that period what his intentions are.

Mrs. Katherine Kalke, 255 Harrison Street, employee, Princeton Public Library: Until she knows for sure he isn't going to ask her, there's no limit. It could be five, ten, fifteen years. After their relationship stops being fruitful.

Miss Nancy McCloskey, 487 Prospect Avenue, student: After one year, I think it would be hopeless. She should know by then.

Miss Ebb Nilson, 32 S. Slanwood, Norwegian Girl attending PHIS for one year. I think one or two years is long enough.

Mrs. Myrtle Church, Trenton, Employee Garden Theatre: I say six months. After that, she should go with someone else.

Miss Barbara Fenly, Plainsboro, secretary, Princeton Aviation: I'd rather spend my whole life going with someone I truly care for and being happy than I would becoming engaged or married just to be one of the majority. It all depends on whether he's worth it or not. If she thinks he is, she should never give up.

Miss Linda Mina, Griggstown, bookkeeper, Princeton Aviation: About six months to a year. She should know within that time, and that's plenty of time for him to know whether he wants to give her a ring or not. Plenty! If she's young and he doesn't want to give her a ring, the next best thing for her is to get a sugar daddy. He'll give her a ring!

Edward Nester, 25 Greenview Avenue, electrical engineer: I think it depends on the relationship between the couple. If there were signs the relationship would never develop, then I don't think there is any hope. I would think if he hasn't shown any indication of becoming serious about her within four to six months, then it's probably a lost cause.

Mrs. Tricia Williams, Butler Avenue, housewife: If she thinks he's worth it, as long as possible, I suppose. Indefinitely. As long as he doesn't tell her to go away. Maybe she should go out with others to make him jealous.

Nell Stahl, Canal Road, graduate student, mathematics: physics: A couple of years. If she hasn't got it by then, it's not likely she ever will.

John Stevenson, Trenton, maintenance, Princeton University: I would say at least nine months to a year. This way she gets to know his good habits and bad habits. I think within a year she should know if he's serious or not.

Miss Arlene Panico, 33 Wilton Street, secretary, Nassau Savings & Loan: About a year. By that time he should have asked her if he intends to.

Mrs. Kate Brophy, Trenton, secretary for Princeton firm: If the subject never comes up, she should give him less than a year. After asking a guy steadily for weeks at a time, she should know within six months if they do talk about it and about coming of it. I think she should give him a little longer — a year in this case. A lot may depend on his financial condition and his age.

Police Pay Raise Backed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
 I feel that the Township Police are justified in demanding a referendum, inasmuch as their request was denied by the Committee.
 I consider them most deserving of a raise; my experience has been that we in the Township are extremely fortunate in having such a capable force.
 It is obvious that their salaries have not been proportionate to the increased cost of living.

Library Trustees Thanked.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
 As the very attractive and spacious new library building is nearing completion, the Friends of the Princeton Public Library would like to call attention to the quiet, hard-working Board of Trustees of the Public Library, who have been the overall responsibility for the building throughout its planning and construction.

They deserve recognition and a tribute. They are at present Mrs. E. Baldwin Smith, president; James Z. Richmond, Vice-president; John L. Hammer, treasurer; Mrs. Theodore C. Kane, secretary; Mrs. Roland H. Hogue, William W. Marvel, John J. McKenna, Jr., Henry S. Patterson and Carl C. Scherer.

In generously giving their time and abilities to the library project, the men and women of the Board of Trustees have made a substantial contribution to the community. We hope they will consider this brief letter an expression of sincere appreciation from all who live in this area.

 Sincerely yours,

'Dirty Politics' Charged.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
 In the Oct. 13th issue of TOWN TOPICS an article appeared stating that "Martin P. Lombardo questioned persistently the mayor and councilmen concerning the juvenile problem," but it did not state that the mayor and councilmen have not taken any definite action. I agree that I questioned them and received nothing but philosophical generalities. The only other individuals to take a personal interest and voice an opinion on this problem at the council meeting were the Democratic Candidates for Borough Council.

I was going to give the mayor and councilmen time to act on this problem because I felt sorry for their poor insight, but the next day the GOP candidate for Borough Council came out calling for the formulation of almost the identical board which I have been advocating for the last three months. I say to you, Mr. Mayor and Councilmen, "dirty politics."

The people of this community are going to find it difficult as I do, to accept a situation in which a tiny handful of politicians whose pursuit of privilege power and profit exceed their sense of public responsibility. The citizens will permit the GOP or any politician to use the juvenile to further their own cause.

 As I have stated before, it is the mayor and councilmen's responsibility to confront this problem and to initiate a juvenile court, and to employ a social worker to lead the council. So, I say to you elected officials, stop worrying about getting your candidates elected and do your job. And councilmen, remember, I am in earnest, I will not equivocate, I will not rest, I will not retreat a single inch, and I will be heard.

FETE SAYS BILL UNJUST.
 Charged $455 for food.
 The Joint Recreation Committee discovered last week that its plan for the Fete this year will be $455 less than expected.

The Joint Recreation Commission, upon whose Communique by Paul Fete was held last June had sent the Fete Committee a bill that included $45.70 for food. Fete was held last June had sent the Fete Committee a bill that included $45.70 for food. Fete was held last June had sent the Fete Committee a bill that included $45.70 for food.

Mrs. Charles B. Hannan and David Blackman suggested before the board last week to protest. Said Mrs. Hannan: "We are all voluntary workers and we felt it was a little unjust. We recently having to pay $455 out of our pockets for which we all worked so darn hard."
 "We have the money, and we'll pay it if you think it is fair. It means turning out much less money to the hospital."

Recreation Director Donald Barr and his board, though in sympathy with the Fete Committee, were adamant. "Somebody's got to pay for it," said Mr. Barr, and chairman Ralph Hull reminded the women: "We're on a tight budget, too. We have no provisions for such funds."

As outlined by Mr. Barr, there were numerous deep ruts in the field caused by trucks laden down with tents; tracks left from an amusement train for children which "was riding around the field all day"; a mass of bricks and debris that had been left in the center of the field; and two watermain breaks which did damage to the five adult softball playing fields. "One diamond was lost for the entire season," said Mr. Barr.

Mr. Barr went on to say that he felt the Recreation Commission had done its share in the repair of the fields and not charging the Fete Committee for the man-hours needed to repair the ruts and the sod or for the cost to repair the two watermain breaks.
 As for Mrs. Hannan's contention that watering alone would have brought the sod back without the need for $300 worth of fertilizer, Mr. Barr replied: "It's the opinion of our engineer that it's useless we."

8¢ A DAY

These three men come to my house because they wanted a little help from me. Usually it's the other way. When I have sent for them, they arrived in a matter of minutes — or seconds. When I have needed them, or thought I needed them, they responded. So when they wanted a little help from me, I listened to what they had to say.

They wanted my support, financial support. In my case it may come to eight cents a day. That is what I figure it will cost me to give the Princeton Township Police the raise in pay that they need and deserve. These are high-type men, specially trained, working under discipline and with a sense of duty and decency and fairness that should be rewarded. Even if it costs me eight cents a day.

When I close the curtain in the booth on Election Day, the first thing I do will be to vote YES on the question of pay raises for the Princeton Township Police. Yes, even if it's going to cost me eight cents a day.

Pool Means Completion. Under "unfinished business," Mr. Barr turned to the swimming pool complex, adding, "I hope next month we can list this under 'finished business.'" He said that the contract for landscaping had been awarded to Flower Hill Nurseries of Trenton whose bid was $5,025. He estimated the job was half finished and should be completed in a couple of weeks.

Well weather, he continued, was delaying the completion of the pouring of the concrete deck areas, now three-fourths finished. All the areas around the pools have been completed. He also mentioned that the hard surface tennis courts were completed and ready for play.

Edward Beascham, assistant director of recreation, outlined the department's fall and winter program. A new program to be offered junior high girls, will be a class in twirling; for junior boys, there will be a breeding class. Also planned are men's and women's volleyball leagues.

Mr. Beascham spoke of the difficulty of offering something for teenage girls. To overcome this, he said, the Commission was planning an 8-week Charm School to be held at the high school home economics room. There would be sessions on fashions, what to wear, cosmetics, dating and so on, at charges.

PEACE GROUP BUSY

ON WAR IN VIET NAM. The Princeton Group to End the War in Viet Nam met last week to discuss past projects and future plans. Among the new projects under consideration are a draft information center, a campaign to raise money for Vietnamese children and an organization to visit legislators.

The Group, which is comprised of several autonomous committees, announced a new committee to promote political work for peace. Mrs. Rhoda Kaelin and Mrs. Ruth Blackmer have formed units to study peace with clergymen in Hightstown.

Maurice Bazin, a physicist on the University faculty, read the meeting an appeal from French scientists to end the war. Students discussed plans for protest action on the University campus.

Roger Maren is president of the group. Those interested in serving on one of the committees should call Mrs. Marjory Pratt, 737-9524.

SNOWS OF YESTERYEAR
Early Winters Described.
Pour a steaming mug of milled rider, curl up close to the thermometer and start to read "Early American Winters — 1604-1820" by Princeton's weatherman, David Ludlum.

You'll find out why the Pilgrims happened to settle at Plymouth, how weather brought victory in Washington at the Battle of Princeton and whether or not it really was colder back in the old days. (To settle the last first: between 1750 and 1850, America went through what Mr. Ludlum calls "A Little Ice Age" and he suggests that we are, at this very moment, moving into a new "cooler period.")

David Ludlum is head of the Earth Science Center at 220 Nassau, and more knowledgeable about the weather than the weatherman himself. He spent 15 years researching and writing "Early American Winters," working on his book a steady two hours each day, from 7:15 to 9:15 in the morning.

"I sent it off to the printer, and I began reading galley proofs as they came back, and George Washington and never suddenly I realized I'd before published in any form. When Washington's complete works were published in 1892, it was thought that his meticulous weather records were too

Volume Two will be out next year, covering 1720 to 1870.

The Great Crossing. In the present volume, Mr. Ludlum used the weather diary kept by the weatherman and never suddenly I realized I'd before published in any form. When Washington's complete works were published in 1892, it was thought that his meticulous weather records were too dull for print, but when Mr. Ludlum ran across them in the Library of Congress, he found they were just the gold mine he needed. "They are indeed dull," he concedes.

We learn from reading Mr. Ludlum's book that Washington crossed the Delaware at a time when the moon was over the Valley was on the northern fringe of a "great coastal disturbance." During Christmas Day, 1776, a falling barometer and a shift of wind to the northeast heralded a storm and by evening, the river at Trenton was under snow and sleet.

"No doubt the adverse meteorological conditions contributed to the surprise of the Hessian garrison at Trenton early the next morning..." Mr. Ludlum surmises, with considerable understatement.

By January 2, however, Washington found himself outnumbered and alarmingly restricted in movement by mud. In fact, "General Mud," as Mr. Ludlum says, very nearly immobilized the army.

But Washington observed that the wind slayed in the northwest all day and that the temperature remained steady near 39 degrees. He felt certain that a freeze would come at night, hardening the roads so that his men could move.

By 4 a.m., the mercury had indeed fallen, the road was frozen solid and the troops began to move. The day of the Battle of Princeton "dawned beautifully: clear, cold and still," according to historians, and Mr. Ludlum adds the scientist's note: "a typical anticyclonic morning in winter-time." At the hour of the historic clash on Mercer Road, the Philadelphia thermometer read 31 degrees.

But 1780's Americans who shiver at thoughts of Valley Forge will be interested to learn from Mr. Ludlum that the three snows of that 1777

What's a Thermometer?

The first thermometer was brought to this country in 1717 by a gentleman with the unlikely name of Cadwallader Colden. He brought the thermometer with him on his Philadelphia after a trip to England. David Ludlum, in "Early American Winters," doesn't say whether bride or thermometer received the most in tender ears on the hazardous voyage to the colonies.

As late as the American Revolution, a newspaper in Connecticut, describing a storm, felt that it had to explain to its readers just what a thermometer was and how it worked.

78 winter were "not excessive." It is the winter of 1780, when Washington was quartered at Morristown, that shattered the nerve, the spirit — and the record.

This was a high point in writing the book, for Mr. Ludlum. "I had more fun assembling those records than doing any other part of the book because I was using original material never used before — that weather diary Washington kept — and because I was born near Morristown."

Well, he said "winter, the Hudson and East Rivers froze and remained solid for five weeks. Washington recorded 18 inches at Morristown in early January, and the Somerset hills were called out to open road from Hackettstown to Princeton — snow was three to five feet deep."

"I've always been interested in snow," Mr. Ludlum observed, watching with pleasure the autumn sunshine outside his window.

Winds and Blows. He is also, of course, interested in tornadoes (that book is in research) — Continued on Page 25

Western Electric's Rob Cushman...

A man with good connections!

Good connections — the electrical kind — let you phone across the street or the country with equal ease. But if just one of the billions of connections in Bell System equipment fails, someone may not get the service he expects. It doesn't happen often. And we're working towards the time when it may not happen at all.

Which is why we have men like Rob Cushman.

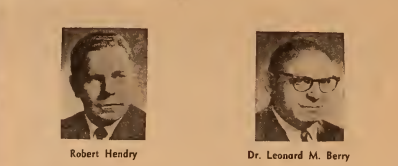

Rob thinks ahead... years ahead. At our Engineering Research Center he develops new mass production techniques for making electrical connections. He has improved ways of connecting wires without first removing insulation. Rob has also designed unique equipment that both makes and attaches wire lugs and terminals in one operation. His work has produced advanced joining and bonding methods for cable as thick as your wrist and for wire finer than hair.

Why do the more than 300 of your neighbors at Western Electric's Engineering Research Center constantly work to improve the manufacture of telephone equipment? Because, like New Jersey Bell, Western Electric is part of the Bell System and thus vitally concerned about your dependable, low-cost telephone service.

hurricanes ("Early American Hurricanes" — 1492-1870), early history (the plant "Weather in the American Revolution" for publication the 200th anniversary year of 1876, and has already done the ground work) and later history (there will be a book in 1970 when the west-burton celebrates its 100th birthday.)

Next year, Old Farmer's Almanac will publish his book on New England winters, splendidly illustrated with old engravings and woodcuts but nicely contemporary, too — it will describe the historic snow-blow off at Middlebury College.

Microfilm and Xerox — the two tools of the modern researcher — were invaluable aids Mr. Ludlum. In fact, has all of Jefferson's and Washington's weather data on microfilm in his own personal library.

"Firestone Library was a magnificent source," he says. "I must have done half my work over there. They have tremendous collection of early American books, bound or on film, and they got Yale and Harvard books for me, and we viewed them and sent them back."

About those Pilgrims and Plymouth Rock and the weather? See page 10.

"Early American Winters" is on sale at the Earth Science Center, 230 Nassau, at $10 a copy.

Elmer E. Chase, 10 Morgan Place, has been elected president of the YMCA-YWCA corporation. A long-time Princeton resident, Mr. Chase is assistant vice-president in the housing department of New York Life.

He joined the company in 1952 as chief of management and operations in housing after serving with the Export-Import Bank of Washington. Mr. Chase also serves as an elder and treasurer of the First Presbyterian Church.

The new president noted that, during the past eight years, Y organizations have more than tripled their membership and activities. More than 7,500 children and adults are currently enrolled in the YMCA and YWCA.

Other newly elected board officers are Mrs. William H. Sward, vice-president, and Mrs. L. V. Thomas, secretary. Previous members who are still serving include Mrs. William M. Beane, Elsie G. Enderby, Ralph S. Mason, Dr. Elmer W. Engstrom, Carl W. Zerner, treasurer, and Col. Cary W. King Jr., chairman of the building and management committee.

BUSINESS In Princeton

NEW OFFICES UNDER WAY

On State Road, Ground has been broken for the Princeton Professional Center, the new office building to be located on State Road 206 near the Cherry Hill intersection. The three-story brick and concrete structure will provide more than 12,000 square feet of office space. The building's designer, Collins, Uhl and Holsinger, plan to occupy new quarters in the Professional Center, and space has already been leased to Drs. Silberman, Bierman and Albin, pediatricians, and Drs. Muttisch and Van Horn, orthopedic surgeons.

The new offices will feature central air-conditioning, elevators, service and carpenter's Park. Office space will be provided in rooms from Mount Pleasant Road. Office space in the Professional Center is still available. Those wishing further information should call Princeton Professional Associates, Research Park, 921-6065.

MEXICAN BRANCH FORMED

By Opinion Research, Opinion Research Corporation has established a Latin American affiliate with headquarters in Mexico City. The new branch, called ORC Mexico, is the eighth affiliate of the Princeton-based organization. ORC Mexico has been organized to fill growing research needs in Central America, the Caribbean and northern South America. The corporation hopes to adapt its modern research techniques to Mexican customs and values.

Joseph C. Bevis, chief executive officer of the parent company in Princeton, will serve as director of the new firm. President of the new firm will be Felipe Vondragon H. form head of the research committee of the American Chamber of Commerce of Mexico. The new branch is part of the expansion program under The corporation, now has offices in Boston, San Francisco, Toronto, Montreal and New York, as well as its three Princeton subsidiaries, Market Dynamics, ORC Caravan Surveys and ORC Service Corporation.

NAME NEW MANAGER
For Prince Theatre, Douglas Wright of Kingston has been named manager of the Prince Theatre, a member of the Budeo theatre chain of Doylestown, Pa.

A resident of this area for 10 years, Mr. Wright has been Budeo for four and a half years, serving at the Prince Theatre since its opening. A musician, he has devoted most of his career to playing the trumpet in New York City theatres. Prior to joining the Prince staff, he was employed by Princeton University on the information desk at the Firestone Library. Now a sprightly 74, and looking far younger than his years, Mr. Wright looks forward to his new assignment to the Princeton community to the Prince. "We've never had a disturbance there, and there's plenty of parking space," he is surried "50 years" and has three children.

PROMOTIONS ANNOUNCED

By University Press, R. Miriam Brokaw and William C. Becker have been named associate directors by Princeton University Press. Miss Brokaw has been promoted to associate director and editor, and Mr. Becker to associate director and controller.

Miss Brokaw joined the company in 1945 as a proof reader and advanced rapidly to her former position as managing editor. Last year, she traveled to help the University of Tokyo Press organize a publishing program.

Mr. Becker was named controller of the Press in 1957 and in 1963 served as secretary to a certified public accountant. He has been a member of the committees on statistics of the American Book Publishers Council and the Association of American University Presses.

Why Plan to Vote REPUBLICAN DEMOCRATIC

By Barbara B. Smoyer

By Samuel E. Nini

David S. Thompson—John D. Wallace. Should the Princeton Township Board feel that these two men will be able to lead us to our present capable Committee? The answer to this question lies beyond mere party loyalty and must result in an affirmative answer from all shades of political parties.

One of the knottiest problems facing the Princeton community is that of the proper use of the remaining money for living, as the well-predicted megapolis becomes a reality. Mr. Thompson and Mr. Wallace speak directly to this problem in their proposal for a Regional Planning Board that would assume responsibility for neighboring communities for the orderly development of open areas, traffic, conservation and sewerage. In addition they feel that the Office and Research Zone should be more effectively used by permitting professional people to have offices in at least part of that section, on smaller lots.

In offering these constructive ideas, the Republican candidates are not overlooking the major interest of the community in the current problem of housing in Princeton as a whole. Anyone who has been actively involved in this question is fully aware of the many facets of the argument which affect all of our lives here. In this respect the candidates are pledged to furthering through consideration of the Citizens' Advisory Committee report to the Township Planning Board.

It seems to me that this is a logical approach, inasmuch as it is expected that this report will embody the expert advice, opinion and desires of far more considered points-of-view than could be achieved by individual discussion without the interplay of all the factors which must be taken into account.

Another very important asset which both these young men will bring to the Committee is experience in financial matters. Much as we may deplore the fact, much of our lives revolve around the almighty dollar, even though each simple bill seems to be losing its effective value in this inflationary period.

The Township Committee have had an outstanding record in keeping the local community tax bill low. Pressures on this item are constantly present. To examine these pressures and come out with the best possible solution from the humanitarian as well as the economic point of view these two candidates offer the following qualifications: Mr. Thompson is the Director of Development at Princeton University, as well as having been the Township Tax Collector. He has served as Chairman for a Boy Scout Troop Committee and is a church Elder. Mr. Wallace, also a Princeton University Graduate, is a newly appointed vice-president of the Trust Department of the First Trench National Bank. He is also the vice-chairman of the Township Planning Board and has served as a member of the Budget Committee of the Princeton-United Fund and on the Citizens' Committee to advise on the new high school.

What a wealth of background can be reflected in the considerations of the growth and changes coming in our community by these two extraordinarily qualified men! Reacting to such a challenge in a careful, practical, informed way, I am sure they will turn out to be outstanding Committee-men in an office which has been filled so capably in the past.

The recent spectacle of the Township Police Force having to resort to a public referendum to secure an adjustment in pay is a perfect example of poor administrative practice by the present all-Republican Township Committee. Either they were out of touch with one of their key operating groups, or unresponsive to its needs.

It is not usually conducive to good morale or good government to settle administrative issues by public referendum. It substitutes emotion for reason, popularity for merit.

To say that this is not a political issue is to miss the whole point. Of course the police are non-political. But the way they are administered — they, or any other municipal employees — is as much a part of politics as any function of local government.

Policy and administration are what we ask from our elected officials. When government fails, it becomes an obligation to take her experience with citizens to examine what happened.

Democrat in Princeton Township have been talking for Study Center, secretary of the government. They have brought out the virtue of having different viewpoints on the committee, of having people at hand to point out alternatives, of keeping in touch with all key segments of the population.

The breakdown between the Township Police and their employers leaves the two parties at an impasse. Here is one good reason for electing two Democrats to Township Committee for the first time in over 150 years.

But not just two Democrats. Party label alone is never enough. In George Goldsmith and Geraldine Boone we have the opportunity to elect two really qualified people to Township Committee. I have compared their qualifications with those of their opponents and there is no question in my mind that in terms of native ability, educational background, and community service they are best suited to serve.

Mrs. Boone has tremendous depth in community service both in touch with the community and responsive to its needs.

Take her experience with youth. A founder and past president of Youth Employment Service, a founder and current president of the Princeton Study Center, secretary of the League of Women Voters on the administration of juvenile law in Mercer County. Or take her work on the Family Service Agency, on the board of the Princeton University, or on the Princeton-United Fund. These add up to service in a great knowledge of it.

Mr. Goldsmith has an equally imposing record. He served on the recent Township Citizens Committee for a new high school. He is a consultant for the Newark Community Union, and served on the executive committee of PAHH. He has also found time to read for Recording for the Blind. This record of involvement reaches out in many directions, supplementing and complementing that of Mrs. Boone.

Any way I look at it, Princeton Township would be ahead by electing Mrs. Boone and Mr. Goldsmith. They would be both in touch with the community and responsive to its needs.

Princeton B.P.O. Elks 2129 will hold a Dutch Maid party this Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Rocky Hill Firehouse. It is open to all.

At its last meeting, the auxiliary elected as officers for the new year Mrs. Elmer Perantoni, president; Mrs. Philip Weiss, first vice-president; Mrs. Albert Robotti, secretary; Mrs. Paul Moran, treasurer. The officers will be installed at the November 3 meeting.

ART SHOW PLANS SET
From Chagall to Pop. Paintings by artists ranging from Marc Chagall to "Pop" master Roy Lichtenstein have been volunteered for "Art Trends '66," the art show sponsored by the Women's Division of the Princeton Jewish Center to be held from Monday through Thursday, November 7 through 10.

The show will feature Chagall's "The Exodus," a series of lithographs on Japanese paper, which was printed in a limited edition of 20. Dr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Noterman have contributed three canvases by Preloppino, the artist who recently took first prize in the State Museum competition for New Jersey artists.

Mr. and Mrs. George Pelleri have lent pictures gathered in various parts of the world, including a work by Israeli artist Zvi Maizovich and one by Mexican painter Leonardo Nierman.

Julian Stanczak's "Walking Shadows" has been loaned by Mr. and Mrs. Burton Peskin. This painting, which was on display for a year in the White House, has been featured in the Smithsonian Institution's traveling exhibit of American art.

BI'S TOURS PLANNED
Of Historical Sites. The Historical Society of Princeton is planning a series of bus tours of historical sights in the area. The Society hopes to provide long-time residents with new insights into the community and to acquaint newcomers with Princeton's historical background.

The first tour was sponsored last week. It was guided by Mrs. Robert Greff, vice-president of the Society and co-author of a forthcoming Princeton University Press book on Princeton architectural history.

The society plans more tours, which will be followed by teas, and intends to assist teachers in planning school tours. Those wishing further information should call the Society's executive director, Mrs. Marguerite McAneny, on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, 921-9130.

WOODFIELD PARK OPENS

For Picnics, Hiking. Woodfield Park is now open for picnics, hiking and nature observation. The park is one of the first areas to be made available to the public through the Township Open Space Commission.

Temporary access to the 100-acre recreation area is from either the Great Road or Drake's Corner Road. Seventy-five Girl Scouts have cleared several miles of trails through the park under the direction of Douglas Dickinson, director of the Stony Ford Audubon Center, and H. Russell Butler, landscape architect.

Part of the land is clear and flat enough to serve as playing fields, but no formal clearing has been done. Those planning to do outdoor cooking in the park must obtain a permit from the fire warden.

PAGEANT SCHEDULED

To Choose Junior Miss. The annual Mercer County Junior Miss Pageant will be held on December 2. The affair is being organized by the Pennington Jaycees. Richard Pratt has been named general chairman. The contest is open to all unmarried high school seniors in the county from 16 to 18 years old. The contestants will be judged on talent, scholarship, appearance, fitness and personality. The winner will be awarded a $200 scholarship and will compete in the state contest.

Assisting Mr. Pratt in planning the pageant are William Houser, program; James Sheenah, publicity and promotion; Harry Guger, production and staging; Ernest Russell, judging; Charles Snook, secretary; Mrs. Barbara Pratt, secretary; David Markens, contestants; and Randall Hazdorn, photographer.

TIGERS TRAVEL AGAIN
To Face Weak Brown Eleven
Aware that they may be out in the role of favorite for the last time this season, Princeton's touring Tigers head for Rhode Island Saturday to play a Brown eleven that is an odds-on bet to finish in the Ivy League cellar. Harvard, Yale and Cornell are around the corner, and the Orange and Black may find the going much more difficult as November itself can be a new five games into the 1966 season. Princeton is confronted with the fact that neither of its tailbacks is passing with any degree of authority and neither is connecting with much better than 33% accuracy. The defense, while improving slowly, is unlikely to be good enough to dull the varied weaponry of the season's opponents of the season.

Brown, however, appears to be just what the menu should list for a Tiger who isn't much more than a shadow of the beast he's slaked the best for the past three seasons. The only member of the league

How To Survive

Cory S. Kemmer

Are you the life of the party? If so, be wary of your driving. At the University of Minnesota, psychologists administered personality tests to nearly 1,000 subjects, and a comparison with the subjects' driving records, discovered that extraverts have far more accidents and violations than do introverts. They were discovered to go through more stop-lights, make more illegal turns, bash more fenders, have more collisions of every type and variety and collect more citations for major and minor offenses. Don't let this stop you from being the life of the party, but do remember to slow your high spirits when you step on the gas. We believe that caution is the best policy, and that dealing with it is in your best interest.

TAILBACK SETS SAIL: Bob Weber (48) bursts through Penn line for 11-yard gain in the third quarter, which saw Princeton score twice on Franklin Field to break the game open. Tigers pushed over 30 points before losers met 13 — their first in four years against Orange and Black. TOWN TOPICS Photo by Bob Matthews.

never to finish in first division, the Bruins lost the few stand-out players they had last season and after an opening triumph over neighboring Rhode Island, have been thumped successively by Penn, 20-0; Yale, 24-0; Dartmouth, 48-14; and Colgate, 48-7.

Able to run through Brown for 423 yards, Colgate passed only twice all afternoon. Inasmuch as Princeton's running game is considerably better than its aerial attempts (263 yards to 21 at Philadelphia Saturday), the Tigers should win by three or four TD's Saturday if they do not decide that they have it made in advance.

QUICK LOOK AT BROWN OFFENSE: Nearly non-existent in last four games, totaling 24 points. DEFENSE: Also in trouble, at least in the secondary, allowing 144 yards in the last four games. CHIEF WEAKNESS: Twenty-two percent proved depth, but overall ability to sustain drives.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Maintaining the attack after a first shellacking.

TYPE OF ATTACK: T, with no serious special formations.

Low Level of Manpower. The Bruins use junior Mike Marone at quarterback and against the good Colgate defense, he completed five for 18 for 40 yards. Senior Neal Weststock running out of the fullback position, is the Providence eleven's principal threat as a ball carrier. The offensive line was largely lost by graduation and the replacements are generally outmanned by the good defensive units they have faced.

At the outset of the season, Coach John McLaughery's hope was that his more experienced defense would hold the line until his attack gained its ability. It hasn't worked out that way, however, and even without Columbia should contribute to warding Brown a 1-8 season.

Off its ability to take charge at the outset with a 68-yard scoring march and a blocked punt for a safety, and to follow with 21 points in the first 12 minutes of the second half, Princeton can be credited with having made visible progress during the week between the Colgate and Penn games. The offense generated touchdowns marches at 68, 70, 60 and 40 yards, each of the first three was aided by a single pass, none was required on the last.

By Bus To New Haven

The Princeton Area Alumni Association has chartered buses to take University alumni to the Princeton-Yale game on Saturday November 12. The buses will leave early Saturday morning and will reach New Haven in time for a "bring-your-own-picnic lunch" at the tent provided by the New Haven Alumni Association. Alumni can make reservations by sending a check for $10 payable to the Association in care of the treasurer, C. Barnwell Straut, 76 Nassau Street.

Ivy League Forecast

Princeton over Brown. Weakest of Tigers' 1966 opponents.

Harvard over Penn. No problem for Princeton.

Dartmouth over Yale. Indians bound to stay in race.

Cornell over Columbia. Red runs very well.

Last Week

Record to Date

20 Right, 8 Wrong — 714

Biggest asset heretofore unavailable was the running — and passing — of fullback Dave Martin. The converted tailback carried 13 signs for an average of nearly five yards and two touchdowns, adding spice to Princeton's repertoire of passing attacks by throwing three passes and completing all of them. One of the worst of the short variety, the gains totaling 21 yards. He actually beat at the line — one of the upset weapons the Tigers will carry into their November battle.

Weber, 3 for 11. Biggest problem on offense — aside from the inadequate blocking still being performed by sons of the inexperienced linemen — is the lack of tailback Bob Weber's passing touch. Often given as much as ten seconds worth of protection while he waited at his receivers, he generally waited too long and found them all covered. Little need as a sophomore and slowed by injuries this season, he will have major trouble improving against the pass rush that Harvard Yale and Cornell can mount.

Sophomore Bob Brackon completed all three he tossed but not quite in the manner he would have hoped for. His first pass was intercepted but he made good on the next two and has — overall demonstrated greater accuracy than Weber. He was at tailback during all of the three scoring drives the Tigers launched during the third quarter and the first three minutes of the fourth.

Princeton went the distance immediately after the opening kickoff. Weber climaxing the 68-yard drive by taking a pass and going straight up the middle for 16 yards to play that barely puzzled the Penn defenders all day. The blockers from five averages under 200, and they and the beleaguered linebackers were bounding off Tiger ball carriers most of the afternoon.

Midway through the first period, Charlie Blakey blocked a Penn punt. The punter could have almost have wrestled the ball out of the kicker's hands in the end zone. The ball bounced back of the goal posts and was easily recovered by a player who completed the scoring for the rest of the half.

A 70-yard TD drive early in the third quarter, with Brackon and Martin doing all the carrying, was followed by a 60-yard march engineered by the same pair. Martin scored both times, one around and from two yards out, and again around the same flank (booles of Cosmo Jaccavazzi) from 17 yards away.

Howard Gibson's interception of a Penn pass on the Quick 40 set up the victor's final touchdown, Braken taking this one over from the two. Ted Garcia converted to perfection on all four scores, but was short on a field goal attempt from the 27 in the second quarter.

were in the Tiger lineup, Penn scored twice, once on a 66-yard burst that began routinely enough through tackle and found most of the defenders overshifted. The second TD elapsed a 40-yard drive that began after the losers recovered a Bob Weber fumble. In all, the Tigers led the ball four times on three fumbles and an interception. It was a 30-13 final.

To their credit was the manner in which they parried down the passing average of Quaker quarterback Bill Creighton, who had averaged almost 200 yards and 50% in his first four games. Against the Tigers, he was not better than 75 yards and 30%.

PHIS AT ASBURY PARK
Sneaks Tylka Sitsprig, Princeton High School, which survived a three-touchdown outburst last week in the final quarter by J. P. Stevens, will travel to the site Saturday for a contest with Asbury Park. Kickoff will be at 2.

Following their 28-18 victory over Stevens, the Little Tigers will be seeking their fifth straight win. Barring an upset of considerable magnitude, they should get it. Asbury Park has been ineffective this fall.

To date, the Blue Bishops of Trenton have won only two of five. In their most recent outing, they were a 3-0 victim of Long Branch, their first triumphs have been at the expense of Mercer County foes—Trenton and Dwing—both of which are mired in poor seasons.

"We scouted Asbury when they played Trenton," said PHIS coach Dick Wood, "and they didn't show much then. They have a couple of fast backs but they don't seem to be able to do much with them."

More dangerous than Asbury Park, perhaps, may be the tendency of the Blue and White to look past the shore eleven to Stieglitz, its opponent ten days from now.

In sweeping their first five, including a 27-7 win over previously undefeated Notre Dame, the Spartans have already won more games than any other Stieglitz team. "We're number one!" shout the loudest followers and naturally PHIS, which has its own ideas on the subject, is eager to burst the Spartan bubble.

Study in Momentum. The J. P. Stevens-Phis clash here last week offered a classic example of which the momentum of a game can switch from one team to the other with dramatic suddenness. At the start of the final quarter, the Little Tigers fell secure behind a 21-0 lead. In addition, no team had been able to score against the PHIS defense in the first two quarters and it seemed reasonable to expect the Blue and White to repeat its fourth consecutive shutout.

TOM TAYLOR RUNS FOR FIRST DOWN: Tom "Buz" Taylor, pursued by a quartet of would-be J. P. Stevens tacklers, runs past the first marker on his way to a first down in Saturday's contest. His 13-yard advance carried the Little Tigers to the Stevens' 13. Action occurred in the first period.

But, within five minutes and 18 seconds, the home team found itself only three ahead, 21-18, and fighting for its life. The aroused Hawks were sniffling victory, a victory which would have been their first of the season. Stevens, only in its third year of existence and competing on a Group 4 level for the first time, had entered the PHIS contest winless in four starts, but in each instance it had lost to an undefeated team.

Among the powerhouses it bowed to were Thomas Jefferson, North Plainfield, Union and South Plainfield. After the game, Coach Wood said that he considered Stevens to be in a class with Hamilton.

The first period was scoreless. At 10:41 of the second period, PHIS, taking advantage of a short Stevens punt, scored on a 37-yard pass from Tom Yoder to Stewart Bell. Along with the TD, the home team was the recipient of a little luck.

In trying for an interception, the Stevens defender tipped the ball and it fell into the hands of the waiting Bell who happened to be in the right place. Keith Conner then booted his first of four conversions.

Some five and a half minutes later the same combination, Yoder to Bell, this time on a 50-yarder, capped a 43-yard drive. The March was set up when Tom Butters, a 6-3 tackle, tipped a pass over the line and then grabbed it for the interception.

Bullock Goes 83 Yards. With 1:11 remaining, safetyman Jeff Bullock intercepted another Stevens' aerial—the fifth such pickering by PHIS in the half—and returned it 83 yards for the team's 20th point. Bullock did not pull it off with speed but used his interference with consummate skill. En route, defensive end Fred Fox, only 5-9, 151, leveled two Hawks with a tremendous block, and Rick Sisco cut down the last man.

Leon's share of credit for the 21-0 half time bulge belonged to the PHIS defensive unit. Pat Tylka, Stevens' line passer, let fly 17 times and saw five intercepted and a few others batted down. He completed only six.

Intercepting were Matt Alexander, Butters, Tom Taylor, Bullock and Rich Voth. Two led in PHIS TDs. At the start of the second half, Huston Webber picked another.

Before the game, Wood remarked: "They say we're an offensive team. I don't know whether we're a good offensive team or much so we're a good defensive team. A lot of our scores have been set up by the defense."

Wood was born out in the first half in spades but in the final quarter, Stevens played its trump. Tylka scored from the one-foot line early in the final period. PHIS, which seemed to have lost all offensive completely, was forced to punt again and Tylka, on a fake handoff, returned the ball 69 yards. Two minutes; a two-point PAT.

PATS Loom Large. Moments later, the fired-up Hawks recovered their own short kickoff and marched down the run by Tony Bally.

Princeton Fuel Oil also ac-cured victory with a strong early lead, as Daryl Boone and Ray Richards scored in the first quarter. Dane Black added the finishing touch in the third period with a 40-yard touchdown run. The lone University score tally was made by Joe McGulian.

The second of the Midget League's double-headers will be held this Sunday at 1 on the high school field. Matthews Construction will confront the University Store at 1 and Nassau-Coveer will tilt with Princeton Fuel Oil at 2.

HUN LOSTS AGAIN
Friends Center Here Friday
Twilight 1965, when it lost only once, 1966 is not going to be a vintage year for the Hun School. With the present season half over, the Johnny Hun are still looking for their first win.

Following a fourth consecutive loss — a 26-12 decision last week to Solebury — Coach Hawley Waterman stated that Hun hopes to play the role of spiller from here on out. "We'd like to get our first win under our belt and then take a crack at Pingry."

"I understand they are unbeaten and it would be nice to run somebody defeated. Since once, they (Pingry) did it to us once."

Hun's next opponent, Friends Center, will come to Princeton for a 3:15 contest on Friday night. Central has won a couple of games — they beat George School and Bryn Athyn — so guests we've got to be considered the underdog," commented Waterman.

Hun Trails Early, As it has in previous games this season, Hun found itself behind opederated Solebury early. The visiting Spartans scored after 13 plays and then added another first period score when

TOKEN OF APPRECIATION: Erik Hoffman (left), president-elect of the Princeton Dog Training Club, presents out-going president Angelo Carnevale with an aviator's compass, a gift of appreciation from the members. The club, which was founded in 1952, annually holds the second largest all-breed obedience trial on the east coast.

They intercepted a Hun pass and returned it 60 yards to pay-dirt.
"It was a pretty good ball game in the second half," said Waterman. "We each traded two and we only fumbled once, which is a big improvement for us. We just couldn't score enough."

Mike Simko got Hun on the scoreboard in the third quarter when he took a Ken Kelly pass and lugged it 65 yards for a touchdown. The home team failed again near the end of the game. Mark Short capped Hun's only sustained drive of the day in going over from the three. He led the losers in rushing with 55 yards.
Inability to mix up its attack hurt Hun. "They played us so tight we had to pass; unfortunately, we're not a passing team," said Waterman.
"Kelly was throwing well but we weren't giving him any protection. When we had men in the open, he couldn't get the ball off."

BOWLING NOTES
Tiger Garage Gains, Tiger
Garage gained a tie for first place last week in the Nassau League, as it is deadlocked with First Aid at 26 points each.
Tied for second, two points back, are Reformers and Citifell Electric while Bee's Auto Body is third with 23.

Individual scores were somewhat lower with Elmer Perantoni's 232-200 heading the list.
Mike Koplinier led 221-192, 191 for a 584 series. Others above 200 were Nick Scalerati, 211; Mike Pinelli, 207; Don Lovering, 205; and John Citifell, 203-200-182 — 585.

Princeton No. 1 saw its lead dip to four points, 30-26, over second-place Lawrenceville in the Tri - County Firemen's League. Kingston is third with 24 and three — Mercer No. 3, Rocky Hill and K.F.D. — are hunched at 22 each.

Bill Davall worked the pins for a 192-226 — 603 series. Ken Luck posted a 190-213 and Wally Brown, 195-219. Others:
Frank Maddalon, 215; Dave Wibbur, 212; John Fitzpatrick, 211; and Harry Kahny, 204.

Dick Wycoff, firing in the Three-Men Classic division fashioned the highest series of the week, a 646 on games of 215-225-191. Joe Beldino and Jerry Griffith had high single efforts of 244 and 232. Bill Covell and Guido Zinetti each missed the 600 level, reaching 594 and 593 respectively.

Down to a one-game lead over Colonial Restaurant last week, Fark Hardware increased its margin to two and now leads 13 to 11 wins. Challenging are Decker's Dairy, 10; and Frank's Motors and Proccacini Construction, 9 each.

Joe Beldino continues to score the lanes in the B League. He followed 1-1 last week's sizzling 693 with a 644 on games of 245-230-169. A fast 247 final game enabled Fred Lehnert to finish with a 617, while Jim Kahny was a consistent 192-215-202 — 607.

High single games were Skip Pinelli's 225; a pair of 226's by Frank Maddalon and Nick Scalerati; Bill Penelli's 223;
Ray Golden's 215; Harry Kahny's 214; and Fred Proccacini's 212.

Barclay, 24, Day Road, Cranbury, for 30 days.

DISCUSS JOINT SCHOOL

For West Windsor and Plainsboro. The Plainsboro and West Windsor Township school boards are considering proposals to build a joint high school. Both communities must raise sending students to Princeton High School by 1970.

At the last meeting of the West Windsor board, Plainsboro board representatives suggested that the two boards meet together to discuss proposals for a joint school. West Windsor plans to hire a consultant to develop a high school project.

Since it does not operate schools above the eighth grade level, West Windsor has been sending its high school students to Princeton. Its tuition bill this month from high school is $48,000.

The board is also continuing with plans for an addition to Maurice Hawk Elementary School. The State Department of Education has tentatively approved plans for an 11-room addition. The board will review construction bids and award the contracts at its meeting on November 14.

VIOLATES MILK LAW
Grocer Fined. Among the 85 defendants fined for violations of the state Office of Milk Industry law is James Bovino, operator of Bovino's market at 39 Leigh Avenue. Mr. Bovino was fined $10 for selling milk without the required Office of Milk Industry license. Forty-two other grocers received the same fine. Dealers who sold to unlicensed stores were fined $20.

DINNER-DANCE SET
By Democrats. The Princeton Democratic Association will hold its annual dinner-dance on Friday at 8 at the Nassau Inn.

Frank Thompson Jr. will be the principal speaker, and Assemblyman Charles Farrington will serve as toastmaster. Mr. Edward Sweeney and

Mr. Robert McAvonia are co-chairmen of the affair. Dress will be informal. Reservations may be made through Miss Esther Dilworth, 524 Kingston Road.

$55 FOR DEMOCRATS
This Thursday, "Dollars for Democrats Day" will be held by Township Democrats this Thursday when they make neighborhood visits between 5 and 8 p.m. throughout the Township.

Mr. Malcolm Diamond is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Floyd J. Campbell, Mrs. Lawrence Crowe and Mrs. Albert Jussino.

As we, as Thorne's can testify, there are not only concerned about keeping their hair, they care about their hair.

To satisfy the demands of women who are greatly concerned with maintaining hair, great advances have been made in the past decade by the hair beauty industry. Shampoo, creme rinses, hair setting lotions, hair greys — all have been vastly improved.

However, it's not only women who care about their hair. More and more men are beginning to realize how much a well-groomed head adds to their appearance.

Today, there are new and better hair care preparations on the market to help the control of hair styles and the care of hair. Stop in soon at Thorne's in Princeton Junction and let us help you in choosing the right hair care for your particular head.

News Of The CHURCHES

"THE SEMINARY"
New Book Published. The Rev. Walter D. Wagoner, a minister of the United Church of Christ and director of the Fund for Theological Education, 161 Nassau Street, is the author of "The Seminary: Protestant and Catholic," a remarkable critique published last Wednesday by Sheed & Ward Inc., Roman Catholic publishing house in New York City.

This ecumenical undertaking is the result of some 18 months spent in Catholic seminaries in the United States and Europe by an observer who has devoted nearly 11 years to the problems and opportunities of the Protestant seminary. The Rev. Roland E. Murphy, O. Carm., writes in the foreword, "His book is not a scientific analytical study of Catholic seminary life. Many such studies . . . still need to be done, at many points in this book their lack is deeply felt. But we are not out of the woods for them; one must prepare for that, and this book does precisely that by its most penetrating of various issues."

The result is an extremely readable discussion of parallels and contrasts in the training of the clergy and of the complex question of Church authority and obedience. The underlying note, expressed in a variety of ways, "Rome is the perfect illustration of what can be found almost anywhere in the world where there are significant numbers of Catholics: far too many outstanding Catholic scholars, far too many remarkable human beings who are tucked away in academic hives, walled away from the scholarly and human intercourse which they should enjoy and from which the rest of us out there could so much profit."

Mr. Wagoner writes critically through both sides of the coin.

simply no excuse for such miserable intonation, sloppy attacks of the phrase, and sluggish interpretations by inept conductors. It is high time for ballet to become cognizant of the importance of adequate instrumental accompaniment. In this one respect, their preparations are still back in the studio.

TUREK "BRILLIANT"
In Bach Recital. A lady of extraordinary pianistic gifts performed at the first Series concert of this season. It was Rosalyn Turek, a keyboard artist noted for her interpretations of the greatest masterpieces of Bach and it was an all of Bach program that Miss Turek presented.

The opening section of the concert consisted of three preludes and Fugues from the first book of the Well-Tempered Clavier, Nos. 1, 8 in E-flat Major and 5 in D. Miss Turek's approach to these well-known works was indeed a pleasure to have witnessed. This reviewer has heard her perform the first two offerings at uncommonly slow tempi, "too slow," but not altogether unconvincing, for her touch was extremely delicate and her rhythm quite amazingly consistent.

MARLBORO QUARTET DUE
"Outside the Series" 7:15 is the first season in which the music made at the Marlboro Music Festival will be offered to music-lovers outside the famous Vermont music center, and Princeton is one of the communities chosen for "Music from Marlboro."

The musicians will appear in 10 McCosh Hall on the University campus on Monday, November 7 at 8:30 p.m. in the first "Outside the Series" concert of the Princeton University Concert series.

"Music from Marlboro" will present the Trio in E-flat No. 29 for Piano, Violin and Cello by Joseph Haydn, performed by Lillian Kallir, piano; Sylvia Rosenberg, violin; and Tom Iwaski, cello; the Quartet in E-flat, Op. 47 for Piano, Violin, Viola and Cello by Robert Schumann with Samuel Rhodes joining the others as violinist; and Beethoven's Serenade in D, Op. 25 for Flute, Violin and Viola. Paula Sylvester will be flautist.

Tickets are available at the McCarter Theatre box office.

ORGAN RECITAL PLANNED
At Seminary: John Lippincott, head of Westminster Choir College organ department, will give the first of a series of organ recitals at Princeton Theological Seminary on Tuesday at 7:45 in Miller Chapel.

Miss Lippincott has performed almost every well-known organ in churches in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York. She has also appeared on the ABC television program, "Pilgrimage."

While serving as an associate professor at Westminster, she is also working for a degree of Doctor of Sacred Music at the Union Theological Seminary in New York. She has studied at the Curtis Institute of Music, as well as at Westminster.

Miss Lippincott's recital will include "The Schubert Chorales" by Bach, "Prelude for Organ" by John Cook, "Fantasia in F Minor" by Mozart, as well as works by Robert Schumann, Jean Alain and Vincent Persichetti.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT SET
With Harvard Club. The University Glee Club will join forces with Harvard Glee Club in a concert to be given in Alexander Hall at 8 on Friday, November 4, the eve of the Princeton-Harvard game.

The Harvard program will include a duet by Thomas Morley, a folksong arrangement by Elliott Forbes, the organ conductor and a group of songs from the Italian Alps. The Princeton club will present selections from an unfinished opera by Mussorgsky and a group of Russian folksongs, arranged by Princeton conductor Walter Nollner. The two groups will join to sing a series of Negro spirituals and spirited college songs.

York landmarks on Tuesday.
The bus tour will leave the Shopping Center at 9:15 and return at 5.

The group will lunch at Frances Tavern. The cost of the excursion is $6. Reservations should be made by this Thursday, with Mrs. John Mc-Kee, 188 State Road, 924-1911.

Dr. Willard Dalrymple, head of Princeton University Health Services, will speak to the club on "Assaults on the Adult World—Real or Unreal?" at the meeting on Monday, November 7, at 8 p.m. at the University Church. Dr. Dalrymple has recently written articles on "Moralism" and "College Students and Sex."

Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Frank Brennan, Mrs. L. W. Perrine and Mrs.
Raymond Spahr. All members and their guests are invited.
There will not be a dinner before the meeting.

CONANT TO SPEAK

On Science and Morals, Dr.
James B. Conant, president emeritus of Harvard University, will speak on "Scientific Principles and Moral Conduct" on Tuesday, November 15, in McCook Hall at 8 p.m. The public is invited.

A renowned chemist and a former ambassador to West Germany, Dr. Conant has been involved in extensive study of American education for the past 10 years. His published works include standard chemistry for the College and the American educational system.

Dr. Conant's speech is being given as the 20th annual Attorney S. Edgington Memorial Lecture, a series established in honor of the British astronomer-physicist. This will be the first time the lecture has been given in this country or by an American.

TWO LOSE LICENSES

For Drunken Driving. Two drivers held their licenses suspended in Borough Court Monday by Magistrate Theodore W.
Tamm Jr. for drunken driving under new implied consent law.

Robert O'Neill, 31, U.S.
Route 1, lost his license for 18 months and was fined $225. He also lost his $10 a second charge—driving with no license in his possession.

Mrs. Ruth M. Rinkus, 61, of 1000 Morris Ave., was driving while her ability was impaired by alcohol but not under the new law. Her license was revoked for six months and she must serve the mandatory minimum of $50 plus $5 court costs. Police said they believe she was the third driver to be convicted in Borough court under the new implied consent law.

Mrs. Rinkus was arrested
October 14 by P.O. John J. Bellow for weaving while driving on Stockton Street. She agreed to take a Breathalyzer test. Her reading was above .05 which indicates one's ability to drive has been impaired, but under 1.5, a level in which one is us-ful to drive.

Bryan V. Gilbert, 25, 59
Shady Brook Lane, and D.M.
Devlin, 24, 14 Carter Road, were fined $25 and $28 for speeding. Miss Karen D. Igoebrand, 18, Plainsboro, paid $15 for careless driving the same day. Charles T. Waters Jr., 18, 485 Nassau Street, was fined for being an unlicensed driver.
A red light violation cost
Michael J. Friendly, 21, 687
Graduate School, $12.

In Township Court last week,
Magistrate Glen B. Miller Jr.
fined Mrs. Kay Patterson, 23, 10 Main Street, Kingston, $10 for careless driving and Mrs.
Monique O'Connor, 28, 139 Mountain Avenue, $10, for an improper U-turn. Michael T.
Vates, 25, 9 Heathcote Road, Kingston, paid $6 for an unregistered vehicle violation.

COLLEGE TEE PLANNED

Interested Students Invited.
Area high school students who are interested in Connecticut College for Women are invited to a tea to be held by the Connecticut College Club on Friday, October 28, at 4 at the home of Mrs. Walter D.

Wagoner, 5 Hunter Road. College alumnae are also invited.
Mrs. Jeanette Hershey, associate director of admission for the College of Arts and Sciences and talk to students about Connecticut. Alumnae and men are encouraged to plan to attend school with Mrs. Wagoner, 924-5556.

THINK SNOW

Skate Club. The Trenton Skate Club will hold a meeting for anyone interested in skating this Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Bromley Inn, Nottingham Way.

The Weatherwax Ski Shop of Princeton will present a fashion show. Club members will model Becosta, Overmayer, and Rallene and other styles.

The club plans to hold its first cocktail party of the season this Sunday at 8 at the Bromley Inn. The theme will be "Think Snow," and guests are invited.

UNICEF DRIVE SET

For Hallowsen. Trick-or-treaters in the neighborhood of Franklin school will be asking for pennies for the Unicef drive on Halloween night.
The Benjamin Franklin P.T.A. is sponsoring a Hallowsen fund drive to support the U.N. children's organization.

"Operation Christmas," a moveable about UNICEF with Danny Kaye, will be shown in Lawrence Township schools during the week before Hallowsen under the sponsorship of the P.T.A.
Executive Council. Last year, the New Jersey school children collected $143,924.22 for UNICEF.

PAINTINGS ON DISPLAY

At White School. An exhibition of 13 paintings by Eugene S. Whiting has opened at 143 University Avenue, Woodrow Wilson School. The paintings are primarily non-objective and are done in either oil or sericite.

The artist is the wife of Philip S. Whiting, a student in the Wilson School's graduate program. She has studied graphics with Stefan Martin of the Princeton Art Association.

Mrs. Whiting's last showing was at the New Jersey State Open Exhibition earlier this year. In 1964, she held an exhibition in Munich, where her husband was stationed as an Army officer.

News Of The Churches

 at Wilkes, the Negro priest and the laity, the minor seminaries for the training of priests and boys ("playing priest"), seminary dropouts, clerical isolation, the efforts secret by exorcism carried on by Catholics in the work-day world, and the debates crackling between clergy and laity. His appeal is to stand in the full conviction that Catholics and Protestants have much to learn from each other.

CONTRIBUTIONS NEEDED
 By James A. Rosen, president of the United Church Women of Princeton, and William R. White, vice president, are appealing to the women of Princeton and vicinity to aid in the World Community Projects for this year.

Items to be collected are personal hygiene kits, cotton and wool goods, warm, clean blankets and towels.

The articles will be received at the World Community Day service scheduled for 8 p.m. next Friday, November 4, in Princeton Methodist Church, and sent on to a Church World Service center.

Churches uniting in the FCW program are Mt. Pisgah A.M.E., Princeton Methodist, Society of Friends, First Baptist, Calvary Baptist, First Presbyterian, St. Andrew's Wittenborn, Kingston and Hillsborough Presbyterian and All Saints' Chapel of Trinity Parish.

JOBS WANTED

For UNICEF. The youth group of Princeton Jewish Center plant a "Mitvah," or good deeds day, Sunday afternoon to raise funds for the United Nations' International Children's Emergency Fund.

They will wash cars, rake leaves, wash windows, clean attics or porches, weed lawns or gardens, mow lawns, wash cars, and perform small painting jobs or other tasks.

Arrangements may be made by calling 923-7459 or 923-9453. Youth group members may be picked up at the center, 455 Nassau Street, between 12:30 and 1 p.m. and returned between 4 and 4:30.

TO READ MANIFESTO

At Lutheran Church. A 16-point "manifesto" concerning the nature and mission of the Lutheran Church in America congregation, will be read Sunday morning at the newly-organized Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in West Windsor.

The Rev. John C. Pfisterer, pastor, states that the manifesto urges the congregation to greater cooperation with other Lutheran and non-Lutheran hosts, greater recognition of the proportion of youth in the population and it asks the congregation to increase efforts to "promote justice, relieve poverty and reconcile the estranged." According to the Rev. Dr. Franklin C. Fry, LCA, president, it is "part of a church-wide look at itself."

Prince of Peace Church is a mission congregation meeting temporarily in the Maurice Hank School, Princeton Junction. Church school is held at 9:15 a.m. and the worship service at 10:30 p.m.

PLAN SPECIAL SERVICES

At All Saints Chapel. Tuesday is All Saints' Day, and there will be special observance at All Saints' Chapel of Trinity Episcopal Parish, the Rev. Harry I. Laer Jr., vicar, has announced.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at 7:15 and 8:30 a.m. A service of evensong will be held at 7:15 p.m., followed by supper and the annual congregational meeting.

PLAYLET SCHEDULED

For WSCS Meeting. "Need Is My Neighbor," a one-act play, will be given next Thursday, November 3, at 8:30-9:45 a.m., meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Princeton Methodist Church.

Mrs. Stanley Fargue is narrator. The setting is an elevator and the two characters are portrayed by Mrs. Robert Sanford and Mrs. Walter Brown. The Frying-Vacarro Circle is in charge of the program.

DR. TIETJEN TO SPEAK

At Lutheran Institute. The Rev. Dr. John Tietjen, author of "Which Way to Lutheran Unity?" published this month by Concordia Press, will address the Church and Society Institute at 8 p.m. this Friday at Riverside Church. The Lutheran Church of the Messiah is Institute sponsor.

Dr. Tietjen is executive secretary of the public relations division of the Lutheran Council in the United States of America. He is former editor of the American Lutheran and long-time student of the history of the Lutheran schism.

in America. Talk and the theological dialogue that inter-Lutheran dialogue that follows will focus upon "The Ecumenical Movement on a Grassroots Level," church renewal through ecumenical action.

BULLETIN NOTES

Seminary Dean. "The Seminary and Ministry to a Changing Age" will be discussed by the Very Rev. Richard H. Wilmer Jr., dean of the Episcopal Divinity School, at the luncheon meeting of the Episcopal Churchwomen this Tuesday in the parish house. The luncheon begins at 12:45 p.m.

Meditation. A Quiet Day observance for all women is scheduled for this Friday in the chapel of Princeton Methodist Church. There will be a service from 10 a.m. until 1:30 p.m., with a silent meal at 1:30 p.m. in the Pine Room, and an evening service from 7:45 until 8:45. Women are invited to come and leave at their convenience throughout the day.

Hallowe'en. There will be a Hallowe'en family night this Sunday at First Presbyterian Church, with candle supper at 6 p.m., and a program at 7. Children are urged to wear their Hallowe'en costumes.

Fund-raising. A cafeteria supper will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. on Saturday, November 5 at Hopewell Presbyterian Church. All are welcome.

We failed.

Available in single flasks or collections of 2,3,4,6 and 9—from $5 to $15 in fine department and men's stores in New York, Los Angeles, London, Paris, Rome and The Thorne Pharmacies in Princeton.

We tried our darndest, but the best we could do was narrow it down to nine.

So we took the whole works. Made NINE shaving colognes from essences imported from nine countries. Put them all in one package.

And ended up with an international collection of shaving colognes we call Nine Flags. Nine great scents. Each one as different as the girls of Sweden are from, say, the girls of France.

But what can a man do with nine that he can't do with one?

He can get out of a rut. Vary the routine. Switch off when he wants something with more pizzazz. Throw his girl off guard with a change of scent. Or with a blend of several scents he mixed himself.

No single shaving cologne can make that statement.
